

Draft Measure Given Final O.K. in Congress

Affects Men of 21 to 35; Stronger Industrial Plan

Washington—(P)—Shortly after congress gave final approval to peacetime conscription today, it received from President Roosevelt a request for an additional $1,733,886,976 defense appropriation, including $24,825,108 to start the draft.

In a letter to the speaker of the house the president asked: $1,602,881,976 cash and $150,000,000 contract authorizations for the war department.

$57,334,000 cash and $7,000,000 contract authorization for the navy.

$40,000,000 cash for the federal security agency.

$33,091,000 cash and $50,000,000 contract authorization for the commerce department.

$580,000 cash for the treasury department.

Among the larger items requested for the army was $294,000,000 for soldiers' pay.

Peacetime draft legislation, requiring registration of approximately 16,500,000 men 21 through 35 for military training, was finally approved by congress today and dispatched to the White House.

The president's signature enacting it into law is expected to be affixed early next week, setting in motion machinery which will send the first 75,000 draftees to camps in November.

House Gives Approval

The house took the final legislative step this afternoon when it approved a compromise between senate and house versions of the conscription measure a short time after the senate gave its assent by a 47 to 25 vote.

The roll call vote in the house was announced as 232 to 124.

The final version included provision for the president to take over industrial plants, on a rental basis, when necessary to get defense orders filled expeditiously.

The senate's action came after it had sent the bill back to a joint senate and house conference committee by a 37 to 33 vote last night with instructions to its conferees to insist on the adoption of a house-approved clause giving the government power to commandeer industrial plants where the owners proved recalcitrant about accepting or speeding up defense orders.

Stronger Provision

This provision, much more drastic than a compromise version previously written into the measure by the conferees, was adopted quickly by the joint committee and the measure returned to the senate for action.

The 800-word section which the committee accepted on senate instructions and which thereupon became a part of the bill provided, in principle, that once the president had placed a defense order, the manufacturer should accept it at a price declared to be "reasonable" by the secretary of war or the secretary of navy.

If the manufacturer declined to give the government preference on this order, or refused to fill it, the government could step in and operate the plant, paying a "fair and just" compensation. The manufacturer would be subject to maximum penalties of three years imprisonment and $50,000 fine.

This provision contrasted with the committee's compromise version which opponents assailed as "vague" and "unenforceable." That would have authorized the government to take over plants only if the secretary of war or the secretary of navy certified that the public necessity was immediate and there was no other source of supply.

Support Russell

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), co-author with Senator Overton (D-La.) of the original senate section discarded by the conferees, led the fight which resulted in the senate vote.

Closely, such opponents of conscription as Senators Wheeler (D-Mont.), Clark (D-Mo.) and Norris (D-Nebr.) jumped into the battle on Russell's side.

Against these, however, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, Senator Burke (D-Nebr.), a co-author of the bill, and Overton all argued that the conference amendment was better than either that had gone before it, and threatened, in fact, more drastic curbs on what they called "chiselers" in industry.

Despite this effort by the leadership, administration forces divided on the vote, with such senators as Byrnes (D-S.C.), Green (D-R.I.), Guffey (D-Pa.), McKellar (D-Tenn.), Schwelbach (D-Wash.), Wagner (D-N.Y.) and Lee supporting the move to send the report back to committee.

Seek to Guard Status of Men Called to Army

Roosevelt Wants to Preserve Social Security Protection

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt asked congress today to give "early consideration" to legislation preserving for new men called to military service their insurance protection under the social security, railroad retirement, and railroad unemployment insurance acts.

The text of his message: "The social gains of recent years, including insurance and other benefit rights, must be preserved unimpaired."

"The national guard legislation, which I recently approved, contained provisions evidencing this policy in connection with benefit rights of workers who are called into active service, and a similar provision is contained in pending selective service legislation."

"I recommend to the congress early consideration of the problems thus recognized, and enactment of the necessary legislation incident to ready to furnish recommendations to the congress in this connection."

King Mihai Welcomes Mother Home After Her 10-Year Exile

Bucharest—(P)—Young King Mihai, stiff and formal in the uniform of a Rumanian general, welcomed his mother, Princess Helen, home from 10 years of exile today.

The meeting between the serious-faced, 18-year-old monarch and the tall, chestnut-haired border princess took place at the border railway station of Jimbolia.

Despite an official announcement that General Ion Antonescu, the nation's military dictator, would accompany Mihai, the general remained in Bucharest for "state reasons."

Rumanians expressed belief that new disputes with Moscow over a frontier incident required his presence in the capital.

Life in Appleton and Valley Will be Filmed

You may see yourself in a full-length movie before long.

A crew of four cameramen (two of them young ladies) today started the filming of a feature length movie in color which will be entitled "Life in Appleton and the Fox Valley."

The movie is being produced by Life Newsreels under the direction of the Appleton Post-Crescent and will be shown at the Rio theater Wednesday and Thursday Sept. 25 and 26.

Glimpses of Appleton city officials "on duty" and of civic groups in their meetings, scenes of workmen emerging from a mill at Kimberly and of students leaving a school at Kaukauna, familiar spots at Little Chute and Neenah-Menasha, all presented in natural color, will appear in the film.

There will be night shots of theater crowds, pictures of Appleton people on their way to church, a typical College Avenue parade, Lawrence college activities, and athletics.

It will all be unrehearsed, natural spontaneity. It will be "as others see you," the "stars" will be people you know, the setting will be places with which you are familiar.

Life Newsreels has been operating in the Midwest for the last two years, taking pictures of this type in various communities. In the last six months, the party has toured Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana.

R. W. Allen is president of the company and Wayne Cayton general manager.

Heavy Balloting Is Predicted in Tuesday Primary

Wisconsin Party Leaders Say New Record Probable

Madison—(P)—Campaigns to stir up interest in Wisconsin's primary election may result in a heavy turnout of voters next Tuesday to select party nominees for United States senator, governor and other offices.

The war question, combined with the controversy over a third term for President Roosevelt and the preliminary skirmishes for control of the state government and the 10 seats in congress, have furnished the candidates with plenty of ammunition to attract the electors.

A normal primary vote in a presidential year totals somewhere between 500,000 and 600,000, but party leaders expect that with the unusual situation prevailing this year the response from the voters will exceed previous records.

Members of all parties will be looking for straws in the wind as the people select nominees to oppose the reelection of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., veteran Progressive, and Governor Julius P. Heil, head of the present Republican state administration.

Since there is no split-ticket voting, the primary often serves as a barometer to indicate how the parties rank in political strength.

Cudahy Enters Race

Seven Republicans are seeking the chance to run against LaFollette, who is unopposed for the Progressive nomination, and the field of three Democratic senatorial candidates was augmented at the last minute by the entry of John Cudahy, Milwaukee, former United States ambassador to Belgium, for whom a "write in" campaign was launched by New Dealers.

Senator LaFollette, known in the past as a fairly consistent supporter of President Roosevelt, went on the air this week to bring to a head his opposition to the president's forecast.

Loans Bill Is Given Approval

Conference Report Accepted by House Vote of 218 to 138

Washington—(P)—The house approved a conference report today on legislation authorizing $500,000,000 for loans to South American countries by the Export-Import bank.

The roll call vote was announced by acting Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) as 218 to 138.

The report, a compromise of differences between senate and house versions, now goes to the senate, where Senator Taft (R-Ohio) announced he would lead a fight against it.

Taft objected to a provision in the conference report authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation by $1,500,000,000.

Of this sum, $500,000,000 would go to the Export-Import bank to assist in promoting trade in the western hemisphere.

The senate bill provided only for the $500,000,000 trade program and omitted the additional $1,000,000,000. Sponsors of the bill said the latter amount was needed for such things as loans to defense industries by the RFC.

The conference version included a senate amendment forbidding loans in violation of the neutrality act or the Johnson act, which bars further loans to governments already owing the United States on past debts.

1,650 Policemen to Fight Sabotage in Philadelphia Area

Philadelphia—(P)—A special squad of 1,650 policemen will be organized Monday, Director of Public Safety James H. Malone announced today, to guard against sabotage and espionage in the vital national defense industries of the Philadelphia area.

Decision to form the special force came after the Philadelphia Navy Yard, key point in defense against intruders when it was disclosed that for three months an outsider had been gaining admittance on a former employee's identification card.

Bankhead's Condition Is 'Not Satisfactory'

Washington—(P)—Dr. C. W. Brunson, naval hospital medical officer, said today that the general condition of William B. Bankhead, speaker of the house, was "not considered satisfactory to his physicians."

"Speaker Bankhead had only a fair night," the announcement said, "but is more comfortable this morning. He has developed a slight fever and at times complains of considerable pain in lower left back and left leg."

Bankhead has been at the Naval hospital since Thursday. He was taken there from Baltimore, where he had collapsed shortly before he was scheduled to deliver an address at a Democratic rally.

Zero Hour Nearing for Nazi Invasion Attempt

CROWDS GREET WILLKIE ON TOUR OF CHICAGO—Touring Chicago between speeches at the stockyards and industrial plants, Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, was greeted by huge crowds in Chicago's loop. Willkie is shown here in his now familiar waving pose as his car moved along Michigan boulevard.

Willkie in Corn Belt on Tour of Western States

Chicago—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie, train stops in downstate Illinois and southeastern Iowa.

He was expected, however, to reiterate generally the theme of his talks here—a pledge of more jobs through economic improvement, a demand for a strong defense program, and opposition to political "bosses."

At the end of a 75-mile auto trip through the industrial sections of the nation's second largest city, Willkie expressed pleasure last night over his reception.

Huge Crowd Present

Estimating that he had seen "almost a million citizens," he said friends had told him that more people were jammed into the loop district than at any time since the welcome for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh after his trans-Atlantic flight in 1927.

A shower of ticker tape and torn telephone books greeted the candidate in the business district, where crowds broke through police lines and repeatedly stopped his 40-car procession. Mrs. Willkie, standing beside her husband, tossed roses to the surging crowd from two big bouquets.

Willkie wore a broad smile and waved both arms during his hour and four but his face was serious when he turned to his wife.

Baby Drowns in Tub of Water

Fatal Accident at Clintonville Occurs As Youngsters Play

Sixteen-month-old David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Rew, Clintonville, drowned about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he fell head-first into a tub of water at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marshek, Clintonville.

The child had been left to play about the yard for short intervals with his cousins, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Marshek. A few minutes after they missed the baby, they found him and pulled him from the tub. Artificial respiration was applied for nearly three hours by the fire department without success.

The parents and grandparents survive.

Blames 'Foreign Agents' for Bombs

Kentville, N. J.—(P)—Activities of "foreign agents" were blamed today by Senator Barbour (R-N.J.) for the explosions at the Hercules Powder company that killed at least 48, and within five minutes blasted more than a score of buildings off the 2,000-acre plant.

While state police checked membership rolls of the German-American Bund against the roster of plant employees, Senator Barbour said he believed "when the facts are known it will be discovered that it (Thursday's explosion) was due as in the case of the Black Tom (Jersey City, N. J.) disaster of the pre-World war period to the activities of foreign agents."

British Say Italian Troops Pushing Into Egyptian-Libyan Area

Cairo, Egypt—(P)—British general headquarters announced today that Italian forces had pushed into the Egyptian-Libyan no-man's-land near Sollum (Salum), harassed by British mechanized forces.

Sollum lies on the Mediterranean, at the northern extreme of the common frontier between Egypt and Italian Libya.

"Following his plan of pushing forward into no-man's land, the enemy yesterday advanced into the area which includes the escarpment southwest of Sollum, the ruined and empty village itself and the ruins of Musaid," said a G.H.Q. communique.

"His movements are being watched and harassed by our armored fighting vehicles, who have the situation well in hand."

"On other fronts, nothing to report."

Marinette Police are Hunting for Burglars.

Marinette—(P)—Police are on the lookout for burglars who visited nine local offices Thursday night, stealing some $100 in cash and a portable electric sewing machine.

The intruders also attempted to enter five other offices in the city business district near the county jail.

Three buildings were entered within the space of an hour and one safe was opened.

Germans Say Many London Factories Hit

Also Claim Airports And Railroads Struck In Other Sections

Berlin—(P)—The German high command, reporting continuing night and day attacks on England despite unfavorable weather, said today numerous factories and docks were hit in the London area and airports, war industries and railroads were "bombed effectively" in southeastern England.

The daily communique acknowledged British night attacks on the Netherlands, Belgium and northern France, last night, but said they failed to cause noteworthy damage.

Germany herself spent a "bombless" night, it was reported. A few casualties were reported at Dordrecht and Papendrecht, near Rotterdam, in bombings by British raiders returning home after they were said to have been driven away from western Germany.

Today's high command report, unusually brief, said eight British planes were downed in yesterday's air fighting. Two German craft were reported missing.

German raiders returning from night raids on the British capital said they encountered "extraordinarily weak defense" and that no searchlights were seen.

Incessant Nazi air bombardments of London, German military circles asserted, have forced the British to concentrate their anti-aircraft defenses in the metropolitan region, thereby depriving other parts of the island of protection.

Germany Hoping for London Surrender

Berlin—(P)—London will be bombed relentlessly unless it surrenders, a well-informed source told foreign newspaper men today.

This spokesman declared that one-third of England's war potential is stored within the British capital, as well as 46 per cent of the nation's imports, and that the city therefore is a military objective of the first magnitude.

Scalise, Former Union Head, Convicted of Stealing $9,662

New York—(P)—George Scalise, former president of the building service employees' international union (A. F. of L.), was convicted early today on five counts of an indictment accusing him of stealing $9,662.27 of the union's funds.

A general sessions court jury, after deliberating for 17 and three-quarters hours, reported convictions on four counts of third-degree larceny and on one count of grand larceny. The jury could not agree on five remaining counts of grand larceny.

Scalise faces a maximum sentence of five years on each forgery count and 10 years on the grand larceny charge.

Originally the indictment contained 60 counts, but the number was reduced to 10 during the trial.

Arrested April 21 in his New York hotel room, the squat, 43-year-old union boss of 70,000 building service workers was indicted five days later on charges of conspiracy and extortion. The next day he resigned as president of the union.

His arrest was directed by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

On May 29, a grand jury indicted Scalise on charges of larceny, forgery and embezzlement involving $60,087.27 of union funds. It was on this count indictment that he went to trial Aug. 12. Today's verdict was the result.

The grand larceny conviction was on a count accusing him of appropriating $2,857 of union funds on deposit in the Sterling National bank of New York last March 29.

The forgery counts of which he was convicted accused him of falsifying the records of the union by submitting four criminally erroneous monthly expense statements for June and October of 1937, February, 1938, and August, 1939.

Raiders Test Defenses of Coast Region

London—(P)—German raiders twice dropped bombs in the London area today, carrying on their long campaign of attrition, while neutral military sources declared that the next 48 hours "is a period of intense danger of invasion to Britain."

Three times up to late afternoon the city's air-raid sirens sounded, the third all-clear coming at 5:05 p. m. (10:05 a. m., C. S. T.).

There was no specific indication as to damage, but it appeared to be light.

Much of the Nazis' aerial activity seemed intended to test Britain's coastal defenses.

The Royal Air Force, meanwhile, went on with its urgent assignment: to smash the bases from which the Nazis might be expected to launch their invasion-attempt across the channel.

Attack Nazi Shipping

The air ministry said British bombers in strong force last night attacked German shipping in harbors and docks on the French and Belgian coasts, adding that large concentrations were wrecked and dock facilities set aflame at Boulogne, Calais, Dunkerque, Ostend and Antwerp. The bombing of barges near Rotterdam also was reported.

Weather conditions in the channel were described as slightly less favorable for sea-borne invasion than for some time. A stiff breeze was blowing and there was mist over the French coast.

While the army, navy and R.A.F. stood prepared to "repel boarders" on Britain's coast and air fields, the postmaster general announced that, due to heavy pressure on telegraph and telephone services, the public had been asked to use them for urgent messages only.

The announcement made no mention of any damage done to these facilities by the German bombings.

Armed patrols of police and the home guard turned out at one southeast coast town last night and searched riverside wharves and railroad sidings following reports that six parachutes were seen descending in that direction. They failed to find any evidence to support the reports.

High-flying bombers rained high explosive and incendiary bombs on the southeast and western areas of the capital last night despite intense anti-aircraft fire.

New Fires Started

Although attacks on central London were comparatively light, the Germans struck repeatedly at objectives in the outer districts for eight hours and 25 minutes, guided to their targets by bright moonlight.

A government spokesman acknowledged that fires were started at various points in the city during the night raid but said that all of them either had been extinguished or brought under control.

One German plane was reported shot down after being caught in a web of searchlights over east London.

The all-clear signals sounded the end of the alarm at 5:25 a. m. (10:25 p. m., C. S. T., Friday).

The morning newspapers declared essential services still were carrying on "limping a little in some places," the News-Chronicle said—and asserted that seven consecutive nights in air-raid shelters had failed to shake Londoners' morale.

Time Bomb Explodes

A time bomb, dropped in yesterday's attack on Buckingham palace, exploded in front of the great grey stone building today, demolishing a gatepost and a section of iron fencing.

The superintendent of the royal residence said bombs dropped on the palace itself and surrounding grounds caused damage between $80,000 and $120,000.

The ministry of information announced that South Africa house, London headquarters of the Union of South Africa, and the historic law courts in the Strand were damaged in last night's raid. Additional damage was reported in Trafalgar square, where South Africa house is located.

Japanese Declare Canadian Ship Was Bombed by Accident

Tokio—(P)—The Japanese admiralty announced tonight that naval fliers accidentally dropped a test bomb on the Canadian liner Empress of Asia, injuring four Chinese crewmen.

The navy at once sent surgeons and official representatives aboard to give what assistance they could and express prompt apologies.

The announcement said there was no other damage. The incident occurred while a naval squadron was in bombing practice off Oshima island.

The purser of the liner, which sailed tonight for Vancouver, B. C., her home port, said there was no structural damage to the 16,000-ton ship.

Heil Declares Program Pays Big Dividends

Claims Statewide Benefits as Result Of Business Methods

Milwaukee — Governor Heil is paying big dividends on his business administration.

Explaining the record of his administration, Governor Heil said today that the business of government is not so much a "business" as it is a "service."

"The program is paying big dividends. This present term will end with a large treasury balance," Heil said.

"The job you give me is not yet finished. I am still working on that job and will finish the task. That is what you expect from your state manager and I am proud to say that the house is in order."

The changes in state government have realized great savings and their efficiency has been increased, the governor asserted, adding:

"Today the whole state is benefiting from the introduction of good, sound business methods into state government."

"Twenty-nine major bills were enacted into law for the protection of the farmer."

"The new department of securities has brought about a renewed confidence on the part of the investing public."

"Costs Reduced"

"The new department of taxation has taken thousands of dollars from the cost of department operation."

"The University of Wisconsin will operate at less cost to the taxpayer than it has operated for some time without impairment to its efficiency."

The governor declared that "the hope of the nation today rests with Republican leadership. Wendell L. Willkie must be elected president."

Answering charges that he had fostered unfair labor legislation, Governor Heil said "the fact that I have been able to work with my employees and they for me in a spirit of complete harmony and without labor trouble for 39 years, is proof enough that I harbor no resentment against the rights of labor."

War Situation Today

Observers See Danger of Invasion Move in 48 Hours

Neutral military observers predicted that the next 48 hours would be a period "of intense danger of invasion to Britain" as the Nazi air force rounded out a week of steady mass attacks on London today.

An authorized German spokesman said, however, that Adolf Hitler alone would determine when Britain is "ripe for the final assault."

Cautioning against the futility of speculation on "nazi time schedules," the spokesman said Hitler would "not be hurried" in setting the zero hour for the long-threatened invasion.

While Nazi military circles contended their aerial preparation was well in hand, Britain still stoutly resisted.

The Germans said a sign of the growing effectiveness of their raids was the shifting of most of Britain's air defenses to the London area, thus leaving the rest of Britain more open to assault.

The British, however, told of meeting the German raiders with a veritable aerial "minefield" of anti-aircraft shells.

Dropping of German bombs in west and southwest London was acknowledged, with the Germans coming over at 10 to 15-minute intervals, but no reports of serious or widespread damage were made.

Commenting on German bombing of Buckingham palace yesterday, the London Daily Mail declared editorially that attempts to assassinate heads of states were part of the calculated policy of what it called "the Berlin barbarians."

The Germans said bombs dropped "in the vicinity of" the royal palace were aimed at oil storage tanks, but the Mail compared the bombing with attacks allegedly directed at King Haakon of Norway and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands during Nazi invasion of those countries.

The German object, it said, was "to destroy every rallying point of national sentiment and character and to reduce civilized peoples to the ghastly mould of the Nazi robots."

On the African front, thousands of Italian troops were reported moving up to the Libyan-Egyptian frontier, giving rise to speculation on the imminence of a possible offensive against the land of the Nile.

Rumana's new director, General Ion Antonescu, decreed the supervision of commerce and industry in that country by state commissioners who must be of "ethically pure" Rumanian stock.

Observers said he apparently was seeking to make good on his announced determination to run the country without interference from any political group—somehow of a problem, since he took charge without organized backing.

Carol, the king he deposed, paused at Sitges, Spain, with his worn-out friend, Magda Lupescu. The couple was expected to continue to Portugal after several days.

The president's son emphasized that Dempsey was a "friend of my father for 38 years" but carefully refrained from a direct endorsement.

He said he was visiting Dempsey's appearance, he accompanied Mrs. Dempsey to a rally, then flew back to Los Angeles.

Dempsey, house sponsor of the Hatch act, charged that "political bosses" were violating the act in New Mexico. FBI agents were ordered to investigate.

Chavez' supporters stressed that he was New Mexico-born and that Dempsey came here from New York City only two years before he was elected a representative in 1934.

Republican candidates for the senatorial nomination were Albert K. Mitchell, Cattleman, and former Gov. R. C. Dillion.

Gov. John E. Miles and former Gov. Clyde Tingley sought the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Republican candidates were Maurice Miera, follower of the late Sen. Bronson Cutting, and Seth Alston, banker and cattleman.

Two Actions Divide Attention of British

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York — (U) — You and I are in the same position today as the British government, our attention being divided between Hitler's threatened invasion of Britain across the milling waters of the English channel and Mussolini's proposed assault on Egypt over the killing wastes of the desert — both ranking among the most difficult military operations of all time.

I mention this distraction because it represents an important element of the axis strategy—making the British defend themselves on two vital fronts at once. However, while Il Duce's maneuvers haven't yet developed to the point where we can say that they are more than a mirage amongst the sand dunes, the bloody assault on England (invasion or no invasion) maintains its terrific pace.

Again the Germans returned to a tortured but stubbornly determined London for a nerve-shattering night of bombing. And again it would appear that civilian morale ranks above all other objectives, although the blasting of this great rail and industrial center certainly is of vast military importance.

British Fight Back

The British Royal Air Force continued to hammer at German bases and communications along the continental coast where the fleet of barges and small boats is being assembled for possible invasion. That's the English game now—to smash concentrations of boats, supplies and troops, and disrupt rail communications.

Word from Berlin is that Herr Hitler is "biding his own time" for his supreme blow and "won't be hurried." That goes without saying if you know der fuhrer. He is a law unto himself—"the" law, to be more accurate—and his word alone controls all vital operations.

Speculation as to when, if at all, the invasion may come is futile. It is interesting to note, however, that there is a full moon next week, and that Wednesday will give England its highest tide of the period. Both these are held by many experts to be favorable for the operation.

The Nazi bombing of Buckingham palace with the king and queen in residence was a staggering incident of the conflict. There are few things which would do more to spur the British people to resistance than this.

Say It Was Accident

The Nazi government has said that this was accidental. So probably would the British characterize the dropping of a bomb the other day near Hitler's chancellery in Berlin. The question arises in many minds however, as to whether chivalry is disappearing from the fighting man's code.

One can't help recalling the record of Germany's greatest air hero—the gallant Baron Von Richthofen, who lost his life in combat during the World War. This dare-devil flyer would take his crimson plane onto the tail of an enemy machine and chase it right over its own trenches close to the ground. But let his opponent suffer such an accident as the jamming of a machine-gun, thus depriving him of his defensive weapon, and Richthofen would dip his plane in salute and allow his crippled foe to ride away.

I was on the Somme when the baron was shot down, and the allies gave this universally admired flyer a military funeral which was a magnificent tribute to chivalry and sportsmanship.

Mussolini's share of this drama—the battle of the Mediterranean—is for control of that inland sea which Britain now definitely holds and Il Duce seeks. The destinies of both empires are largely dependent on free access to these blue waters which represent one of the great cross-roads of the world.

Defense Is Vital

For England the defense of this life-line is well-nigh as vital as is the winning of the battle of Britain. For Italy, domination would mean expansion and great power. Possession of Egypt alone would bring vast wealth in its cotton, grains and minerals—not to mention its strategic value.

Mussolini's position isn't wholly enviable. He was pretty well prepared for a fast and furious fight when he entered the war, but not for a protracted engagement. His weakness is his vulnerability to naval blockade, and the fact that he is up against this in a big way.

Not only is Italy itself reported to be exceedingly short of many essential supplies, but her water communications with her African possessions and armies virtually are severed by the powerful British fleets. England's control of the sea threatens Mussolini with strangulation, and her continued resistance

Who's Who in County Politics

(Editor's note—The following is one of a series of articles on the men and women who are directing political activity in Outagamie county. Some of them had no public office nor do they seek office while others are office holders and are candidates this year. These articles are confined to the men and women who have been political leaders first and candidates and office holders second. Their personal reasons for being in politics are given in the articles.)

Franklin C. Jesse, 1512 S. Albia drive was the first chairman of the first official Young Republican club in Outagamie county.

He is secretary, treasurer and manager of the Integrity Insurance company and has been a Republican for as long as he can remember, inheriting the party principles from his father.

Jesse became actively interested in Republican party a few years ago and helped promote the permanent reorganization of the Young Republican club. He assisted in getting a charter for the club and became its first chairman.

His only attempt at public office came in 1938 when he entered the race for first district assemblyman. Since that time, he has been just as interested in Republican principles and the success of the party but has held no office in the county.

Jesse believes that politicians in Wisconsin are as good as they are elsewhere but believes the whole plane of politics could be improved if career men, men who have studied government and economics, would run for office.

He is against unproductive spending and believes it should be stopped. A particular weakness of government is the lack of thorough investigation by legislative committees when faced with a problem. Another idea Jesse has for improving government is to reduce the number of government bureaus interfering with business.

Age Limits Should be Wider In Selective Service Bill

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C. — Perhaps—and I hope and pray—this will be my last twang on my single-stringed Jew's harp—the selective service bill. I believe it will be passed before another column on it could be written. If I wanted to write one—which I don't—I get just as tired of a single subject as the long-suffering customers and maybe more so, but with no boasting and as a simple cold hard fact, I happen to know more about this subject than any living man by intense and successful experience.

I have some sour letters saying that the reason I am so repetitious and emphatic is that I want to be "director of selective service," as I was deputy director before. I don't, and even if I did, Mr. Roosevelt would rather lose an eye-tooth than call me to that duty. I don't blame him in the least. In his shoes I would take the same view myself.

I have served him as loyally as anybody around him when I agreed with him. Since I have disagreed, I have criticized him and some of his associates as hard as anybody. In that job, I would be an embarrassment to him and to many of his lieutenants. On this bill, as on all other measures to speed and make efficient our national defense, I have supported him as constantly, strongly and effectively as any of his friends.

Men in the war department charged with planning this effort have also had everything I could give from my experience in the way of both support and advice, and both they and the president know that no matter who is finally charged with the execution of this law, they can rely on me for any unofficial help and support I can give, from running errands to the best this column can offer.

This should be obvious because it is a vital matter of national defense which, on all the experience of our race, could so easily fail if blundered. But which, on the experience of 1917, if wisely administered, could so easily succeed, and by success, do as much for national unity and confidence as any major effort. It should be obvious also because, in a manner of speaking, it is my baby and I am intensely jealous of its success.

All of which is a wind-up to pitch for a provision to register a wider age group than the senate bill to register men from 21 to 31 only.

Draft Could Be Administered More Fairly With Larger Group
A contrary argument appeared in the New York Daily News. It wants to register only men from 21 to 24.

Council Asks Five Separate Bids on Pool

Plans are Approved; Canning Company to Build New Warehouse

After some discussion over whether the bathhouse will be of frame construction or of ornamental concrete, the city council last night approved plans and specifications for the new Hunter swimming pool in Erb park and authorized the advertising for bids.

The plans before the council last night provide for a concrete bathhouse. Several aldermen pointed out that the original plan called for a wooden building and asked if this change would entail considerably more cost.

Paul Schroeder, Watertown, engineer - representative of Hunter Swimming Pools, Inc., said the difference would not be great. The council agreed that the bids would indicate just how much added cost would be entailed by a concrete bathhouse. The council then passed the "go ahead" signal to the project. Seventeen aldermen voted in favor of it, with Alderman Edward Knut dissenting.

Alderman Knut asked whether the approval of the state board of health had been received. It was reported that except for minor adjustments, the state department was ready to give its consent.

There will be five separate bids on the pool, which is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $48,000. Separate bids on the pool proper, filtration plant, bathhouse, electrical and plumbing work will be asked. Aldermen indicated an eagerness to get started on the pouring of the pool slab, so that all will be in readiness for next summer's swimming season.

The council last night voted to sell to the Fuhremann Canning company for $400 a piece of land adjoining the company's present property on which the firm will construct immediately a concrete and steel warehouse, 40 by 200 feet in size, costing about $11,000.

For Storage. The company, represented by Oscar Boldt, contractor, came in with a request at last night's meeting for prompt action by the council, pointing out it needed the storage space for canned goods before the cold season sets in. The property involved is on the grounds of the city isolation hospital. A provision of the deed requires the Fuhremann firm to move the hospital to another place of its property at its own expense. This is necessary because the location of the new warehouse would bring it within a few feet of the city building.

The council voted to accept the John Hegner plat in block 64 of the old Fifth ward, but argued over an accompanying clause asking for a change in zoning to put part of the land in the local business district.

The council was asked to make this change on the northeast corner of Block 64, 165 feet west from N. Landwood avenue and 100 feet south of W. Spring street. There was considerable opposition from some quarters of the place to allow business firms a place on Badger avenue. The council voted down a resolution by Alderman Gustave laying the matter over until the next regular meeting, then voted 14-4 to accept the Hegner plat.

The action will not be official until held on a public hearing held on the matter.

The aldermen accepted a report of the street and bridge committee containing the following recommendations: Purchase of a carload of alley pavers from Marston Brothers company; that laying of curb and gutter on Atlantic street from Center street east to be for a 30-foot street; purchase of a carload of calcium chloride from the Chemical Supply company, Neenah, at $22 per ton; granting of permission to the Quaker Dairy company, 125 E. Pacific street, to remove and repair the boulevard in front of its building to provide more parking space.

Cavalry Unit To be Changed To Artillery

Reorganized Outfits Will be Included in 12th Division

Instructions for the conversion of the 53rd cavalry brigade of the Wisconsin national guard, including the 105th cavalry artillery, into the 126th field artillery and for the reorganization of the 107th quartermaster regiment were received yesterday by Ralph Immell, adjutant general of Wisconsin.

The reorganized 107th quartermaster regiment with headquarters at Madison will include Company A of Clintonville. The national guard points out that "this conversion and redesignation brings the 107th quartermaster regiment, 32nd division, all within the state of Wisconsin. It also organizes the 126th field artillery within the same state."

The conversion of the cavalry brigade is in line with the national policy of mustering out all national guard cavalry, which will be reorganized and redesignated in other branches of service, Immell declared. Commenting on the reorganization, Immell said, "Inasmuch as national guard cavalry has come to the end of the road, Wisconsin is very fortunate in the reorganization that all Wisconsin national guard units with the exception of the 13th medical regiment is now a part of the famous 32nd division of the World War. The 13th medical regiment, because of its splendid record and unusual personnel stands on its own feet and has just had its designation changed from a corps medical regiment to an army medical regiment."

Lawrence Fraternity Men Prepare Houses For Rushing Sunday

Lawns are being mowed, bushes clipped and windows washed by members of the five national fraternities at Lawrence college as they prepare their chapter houses for the opening of rushing week Sunday afternoon.

Modern quadrangle chapter houses are being constructed for the fraternities, but the quadrangle will not be completed until January, so fraternities will use their present houses until their new quarters are ready for occupancy.

Rushing week will close Saturday, Sept. 21 Sunday afternoon and evening and Monday evening will be used for compulsory dates, each freshman visiting two fraternities each time except Sunday evenings when he will visit one.

The next four dates through Friday will be optional dates, and two dates on Saturday will be preference dates. Pledging will take place on Sunday, Donald M. DuShane, dean of students, will be the intermediary for fraternities and rushers.

Rushing functions are confined to the fraternity houses and are staged.

Army Reorganizing 'Streamlined' Units To Increase Power

Washington — (P) — Reorganization of its new "streamlined" divisions to provide greater striking power, and simplicity of command was ordered Friday by the war department.

A substantial increase in armaments, already far exceeding World war or national guard division strength was embraced in the orders issued as a result of deficiencies uncovered during maneuvers and field exercises of the last year.

There will be decided increase in the number of machine guns, rifles (both automatic and semi-automatic), mortars and anti-tank weapons, the department announced.

The authorized strength of the new-type divisions is to be approximately 14,000 officers and enlisted men, compared with the authorized war strength of approximately 12,000 officers and enlisted men for the present "streamlined" divisions.

The Watchman

Goldboro, N. C. — (P) — Goldboro police, sked to investigate a mudist colony, found that the complaint was occasioned by the nightly baths in a creek of a tired and hot night watchman.

Senator Nye Isn't a "Liberal" Any More

Senator Nye has been getting farther away from the state of idealism in which a man's mind is lifted above the clouds while his feet still are made of clay. If the President takes a swipe at him pretty soon it will be because Mr. Nye wrote the following letter, conspicuously printed in the New York Times:

"The New York Times in an editorial this morning entitled 'Mr. Nye Finds It Funny,' ridicules me for allegedly having ridiculed the idea that Mr. Hitler could successfully invade the continental United States.

"This, if the matter were not so deadly serious, would indeed be funny, inasmuch as one of my authorities for my belief that Mr. Hitler would find such a program distinctly difficult if not, indeed, impossible, is the military expert of The New York Times itself, Mr. Hanson W. Baldwin.

"Mr. Baldwin has said, and I have quoted him, thus:

"The maximum initial force that could be transported (from Germany to the United States) even if control of the sea were wrested from us, would not be much larger than 50,000 men.

"The transportation of such a force would require 375,000 tons of shipping, perhaps forty ships, about the largest force that could conveniently be conveyed in a single operation.

"To supply such a force might require from 650,000 tons of shipping to two million tons monthly; in other words, perhaps half of the tonnage of the German merchant marine would have to be devoted solely to the job of supplying 50,000 soldiers. If this force were to be doubled, the shipping tonnage necessary would be doubled; to supply an army of one million men would require at the very least 13,000,000 tons of shipping.

"Economically and commercially, the problem seems impossible; not even Britain or a combination of Britain and Germany has sufficient shipping to divert such an enormous amount of it from their ordinary and vital trade routes to military purposes."

"So said Mr. Baldwin, The Times' own expert, but The New York Times has, perchance conveniently forgotten about it just as conveniently as it forgets to add that when it quotes me a year ago that there wasn't going to be a war in Europe, that I added that there wouldn't be unless the United States gave the signal to go. Which I am confident it did, and I think history will show that the administration gave England and France reason to believe that if they would declare war on Germany, help would be forthcoming.

"I am not afraid to believe that some day history will show, as one of the blackest marks of our time, that we sold out, by deliberate falsification, the two European nations with which we had the closest ties. We sent France to her death and have brought England perilously close to it. Had they stalled Hitler for a while, while they prepared to meet him, the story might have been different. Instead they plunged into it, unready as they were."

We trust the men who write our dictionaries and closely scan the changing meaning of words will keep their binoculars upon this word "liberal." It has wholly different meanings in England and America. And its meaning in America has recently taken a turn for the worse. If Mr. Roosevelt gets a third term a "liberal" will come to mean a fellow who spits out abuse at all non-militarists.

John M. Smith for State Treasurer

Why should anyone voting in the Republican primary think of voting for anyone for state treasurer but John M. Smith?

It isn't often that a man with Mr. Smith's record and characteristics obtains important office, and more is the shame in that fact. In a country with honor and honesty crashing everywhere about us wouldn't it be wise to keep our eye upon one man who lifted his head far above the average and falsehood of the day to do right in the Lincolnian sense?

John M. Smith was the man who ran a small bank in northwestern Wisconsin which curled up when farm mortgages became a drug on the market. And without personal charge or legal responsibility this same John M. Smith is the fellow who contributed the larger share of his salary as state treasurer to a fund to make the depositors who trusted in him sound again.

Instead of defeating John M. Smith for state treasurer, the really modest office upon which his ambitions are set, we should have supplanted some of our big double twisters with this sort of man.

The Attorney General's Record

The report made by Attorney General John E. Martin shows that in the most favorable of his two years in office he made a cut of approximately 40 per cent in his budget as compared to the last year of his predecessor in office.

Considering that the entire budget for the attorney general's office was in the neighborhood of $200,000 a 40 per cent cut is not only real progress but real money.

Mr. Martin did not go into details. But it does not take a very active imagination to point to the probably major cause of this improvement: Mr. Martin simply kept his word.

When he was elected attorney general he said that he believed that he and the regular assistants allowed him could handle capably all the work of the office. That meant an abandonment of the old system that has prevailed for so long, and under all parties, to use the power of the attorney general in the appointment of "special counsel" as a means of repaying political debts and tuning up great oratorical voices for the next campaign.

Constantly under such system leading lawyers throughout the state were appointed to fat jobs with only the sky and the hunger of their bank accounts as the limit for the fees they charged. A Progressive attorney general appointed Progressive lawyers, a Democratic attorney general thought Democratic lawyers should be let into the oat bin and a Republican attorney general saw to it that Republicans were appointed. Many vouchers for $5,000, $10,000, $20,000, and up, have gone out under this practice. Mr. Martin stopped it cold.

In a period of our history where public waste has been a political virtue and broken promises a matter of boast the record is unique to say the least.

Carol and the Future

Naturally King Carol is looking for asylum in America. Royalty is coming here in droves and not for personal safety alone. The kings and queens, princes and princesses, dukes, archdukes and grand dukes, with retinues of "faithful followers," secretaries, "chamber maids, chamberlains, etc., are keenly interested in the transformation or metamorphosis of this republic and the great position of our American nobility.

The Third Term is the thing that dazzles them. Anyone can take over power by brute force if he has sufficient of the brutes to do the forcing. But European royalty is too gentle for any physical struggle, and too tender hearted to look upon flowing blood. It greatly admires craft and subtlety and shouts "Bravo!" at sly strategy, maneuvering and even knavery and jugglery.

Carol could learn a good deal over here. He has really only had his second term as king of Rumania but he made that one last ten years, and now his country says they haven't a temple big enough to hold the money changers of whom Carol is reputed to be the leader. He slipped woefully in some regard. Perhaps he didn't use enough flattery. Possibly he did not weep sufficiently over the one-third ill fed.

Anyway he can learn something in America.

Is Senator Bridges Becoming a Will Rogers?

That was a strange address Senator Bridges made when he denounced Mr. Robert's collection of $931,000 as fees on government contracts while serving as secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

Senator Bridges said that Mr. Robert should resign his political position. We would like to have seen the senator's face when he advanced that idea instead of suggesting that the great Democratic humanitarian should keep his secretaryship and turn back the $931,000 to the treasury.

When a political leader makes a fortune and gets it without having to submit a bid or go into competition with another, picture him letting go of the position that made this income possible. Even in the most humanitarian manner, and for the purpose of dividing up wealth which is such a sweet democratic principle, there is no use of either getting cynical or crazy. With a war coming on and the now open doors of the treasury completely pried off and the walls blown away, Mr. Robert sees several million just where he spotted that $931,000.

We are going to need a bigger Temple in the future to house all our new money changers.

MORNING COMES TO BABY

The birds and the baby are waking up together. Dawn brushes the sky with a silver feather. The baby's laughter, the bird's soft call. Into the morning silence fall.

Last night I was deep in a dream of ancient sorrow.

And dreaded the dawn of a new tomorrow. My pillow was wet with helpless tears. I would awake to lonely years.

The birds and the baby and I awoke together. We opened the window to bright blue weather. And into my heart the whole day long Came a baby's laugh and a bird's glad song.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—A strange situation is brewing inside the national defense commission which may get the Roosevelt administration, to say nothing of the country, into serious trouble.

With the nation desperately needing tin; with the Dutch-Malay tin supply likely to be cut any day by Japan; and with only a limited supply of tin on hand, two men inside the defense commission are holding up state department plans for the smelting of Bolivian tin in the United States. The two men are:

Erwin Vogelsang, formerly connected with two London tin firms, Lewis Lazarus and Sons, and Malcolm Bowley and Son, who has worked all his life in close contact with the British-Patino tin monopoly.

Robert L. Hallett, chief chemist of the National Lead Company, which owns part of the Patino mines and was in on the British tin combine.

These two men are now urging that the United States do business with Simon Patino, the tin king. They don't want the United States to do business with any Patino rivals, and because of their persistent urging the entire transaction has been delayed for two months.

What happened was that the state department arranged with the Bolivian government to supply tin ore to be smelted in this country. This would break our dependence on the Patino-British interests which smelt tin only in England or the Malays, with a risky ocean haul to the United States in wartime.

After the state department thought it had virtually completed arrangements, Vogelsang and Hallett urged that the deal be held up until Patino arrived in the United States. Patino has now been here a month, and still the defense commission delays.

Vogelsang and Hallett have used their influence with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to throw the deal to Patino. They say he is the only man who knows how to smelt tin.

But meanwhile the Bolivian government is doing business with Patino's rival, Mauricio Hochschild, who promises immediate deliveries. Meanwhile also, time flies and the American tin situation comes increasingly precarious.

SITUATION DESPERATE

This column sometimes has been accused of being too pessimistic about Britain's chances of victory. However, we believe it is only fair to the British to report the obstacles they face, and also wise for the American people to realize the future obstacles which they may face. Therefore, we must report further that there is increasing fear inside the U. S. army and navy that Britain cannot hold out against Hitler.

In fact, the British situation, at the present writing, must be described as desperate. This conclusion is based upon the fact that in the past week Nazi planes have assumed complete control of the air over England.

The performance of the Royal Air Force has been gallant and heroic, but of late more spectacular than effective, despite its bombing of Berlin. The ratio of Nazi casualties, as compared to the British, has dropped. British pilots, spending longer hours than any air expert ever contemplated, are weary and jaded.

British airplane production has kept up better than expected and 900 new planes per month take the air. But this merely supplies reinforcements. And 900 planes in a month are nothing when you realize that 2,000 Nazi bombers sometimes come over England in a day.

U. S. AID?

In view of these developments, two important questions are under discussion in Washington today.

One is what further help the United States can give Britain to keep her fighting.

Two is joint Anglo-American defense plans in case England falls.

Regarding the first, the British already have made it clear that what would help their cause tremendously would be the purchase of United States army flying fortresses, and the loan of the United States bombers.

Acquisition of these would permit the British to carry the war into the camp of the enemy as never before. United States military strategists figure that England's slow preparedness start never can catch up with the Nazis; therefore best British strategy is to continue to rain bombs over Hamburg and Berlin.

To this end they would also like to get the famous bombsight which the army and navy have perfected and which is supposed to be the most accurate in the world.

Whether they will get flying fortresses and the bombsight, however, is doubtful. Agreement by both Roosevelt and Willkie probably would be necessary, plus the consent of U. S. army and navy leaders, who guard their secrets jealously.

IF BRITAIN FALLS
Meanwhile, and of necessity, confidential discussions of what the United States will do if Britain falls have intensified. They hinge around the hope that most of the British fleet can cooperate with the United States in defending the Western Hemisphere.

Also they hinge around the strategy of a continued blockade of Europe. After all, Hitler must feed Europe after he gets it, also Germany must have certain strategic materials such as tin and rubber. The British fleet, still in control of the Indian ocean, together with the U. S. fleet in the Western Hemisphere can enforce an effective blockade.

Note—Those who have talked with President Roosevelt in the last few days find him completely absorbed with Britain's desperate predicament.

DEFENSE JAM-BUSTER
Donald Nelson, for many years executive of the Sears, Roebuck mail-order house, now has become one of the chief log-jam busters of national defense. Officially his job is director of procurement for the United States Treasury—in other words, in charge of government purchases.

Recently the navy department sent a very important order to Bethlehem Steel Corporation with a preference number to expedite it for the earliest possible delivery. The next day word came back from Bethlehem: "Sorry, but you will have to wait."

For some unexplained reason the navy said nothing to the defense commission about Bethlehem's delay, even though the commission has the power to compel compliance. Instead the navy tried to handle the situation itself. But after two weeks of unsuccessful effort, the navy finally went to Nelson, who in addition to his procurement duties aids the defense commission.

Nelson reached for a telephone, called Walter Tower, secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and said, "I hope we don't have to get tough, but when an order goes out marked 'expedite,' it means just that. I want immediate action on that order."

Twenty minutes later, Eugene Grace, potent boss of Bethlehem, personally telephoned Nelson and assured him it was all a mistake. Through some misunderstanding a subordinate had mishandled the matter and it would not happen again.

"We are not only going to work on that order at once," purred Grace, "but we are going to do everything within our power to get it completed before the required date. I want to assure you we are anxious to cooperate in every way possible. This is a very unfortunate error."

A Bystander In Washington

Editor's Note—While Jack Slinn, who writes the "Bystander in Washington," is on vacation, the space usually devoted to his column has been made available to a pro-and-con presentation of an agreed list of political subjects.

This is the Democratic view of "The New Deal." The Republican view was presented yesterday.

BY SUSAN BRANDEIS

Daughter of Louis D. Brandeis, retired justice, Supreme Court of the United States

Washington—I believe Franklin D. Roosevelt to be the right man for the tremendous responsibility that rests on the shoulders of the President of the United States, because he has shown in almost eight years of performance how effectively he can steer the ship of state.

With problems of unemployment such as we never had before, President Roosevelt and his administration conceived and have effectively operated a relief and work program which has literally saved the lives of thousands of men, women and children in this country and have at the same time created great and useful improvements which we could not have had in any other way.

President Roosevelt and his administration worked out and put into effect such remarkable achievements as the Social Security board, the National Youth Administration, and other parts of a great program to extend the service given by the government to the people of the United States.

I could enumerate many other measures which will make President Roosevelt stand out in history as one of our greatest Presidents, but I shall mention only one—the National Labor Relations Act. How many people realize that strikes were 45 per cent lower in 1939 than they were in 1937 and 1938 as a result of this important piece of legislation? It is a matter of record that since the NLRA was declared constitutional industrial disputes have steadily declined.

It is important during the forthcoming election to bear in mind that the continuation of the National Labor Relations law is still in danger. As recently as last winter, there was a fight on it in Congress and the fight is still going on. It is impossible to forget that it was President Roosevelt and a Democratic Congress who gave America's poorest-paid workers a living wage under the Wage and Hour Law. Under this legislation men and women workers, some of them receiving as little as $3.00 a week, will soon receive a $16 minimum for a 40-hour week. Most of the workers affected, more than 2,000,000 of them, were unorganized and a large majority were women.

When President Roosevelt was inaugurated in 1933, the United States was in a desperate situation because of domestic problems.

By the courage and wisdom with which they met that situation, I believe President Roosevelt and those under his guidance demonstrated their ability to lead this nation through danger. Today we face a situation in which the last great democracy on earth, except our own, is in desperate straits, fighting heroically for existence, needing our help, encouragement, and cooperation.

Is this any time to turn over the helm to a man whose greatest claim to fame is that he sold his utilities business to the government?

I say, no.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

I got a laugh out of that convention of the American Bar association from just picturing a lot of lawyers in a position where they could only cross-question one another.

One faction wanted the association to come out against a third term and the other faction was against it, on the ground, I suppose, that there was no sense in lawyers giving opinions without getting fees.

They finally voted against expressing any opinion on the third-term issue. That's lawyers all over. They demand a "yes" or "no" answer from everybody they get on the stand, but they're against it when they face a straight question.

I see where a German bomb damaged Madame Taussaud's wax works in London. Many wax dummies were damaged, but the figures of Hitler and Mussolini escaped. This will be accepted by the Nazi and Italian press as another proof of axis strength.

I look for some editorials from the Italian press denouncing Churchill for permitting the wax figures of Adolf and Benito to be exposed to danger.

Senator Gayda ought to be particularly upset.

Man Defeats Nature, Yellowstone Reports

Yellowstone National Park—(A)—Getting geysers to perform is a matter of balancing water.

Daisy geyser, which should erupt every 80 to 105 minutes, recently failed to spout.

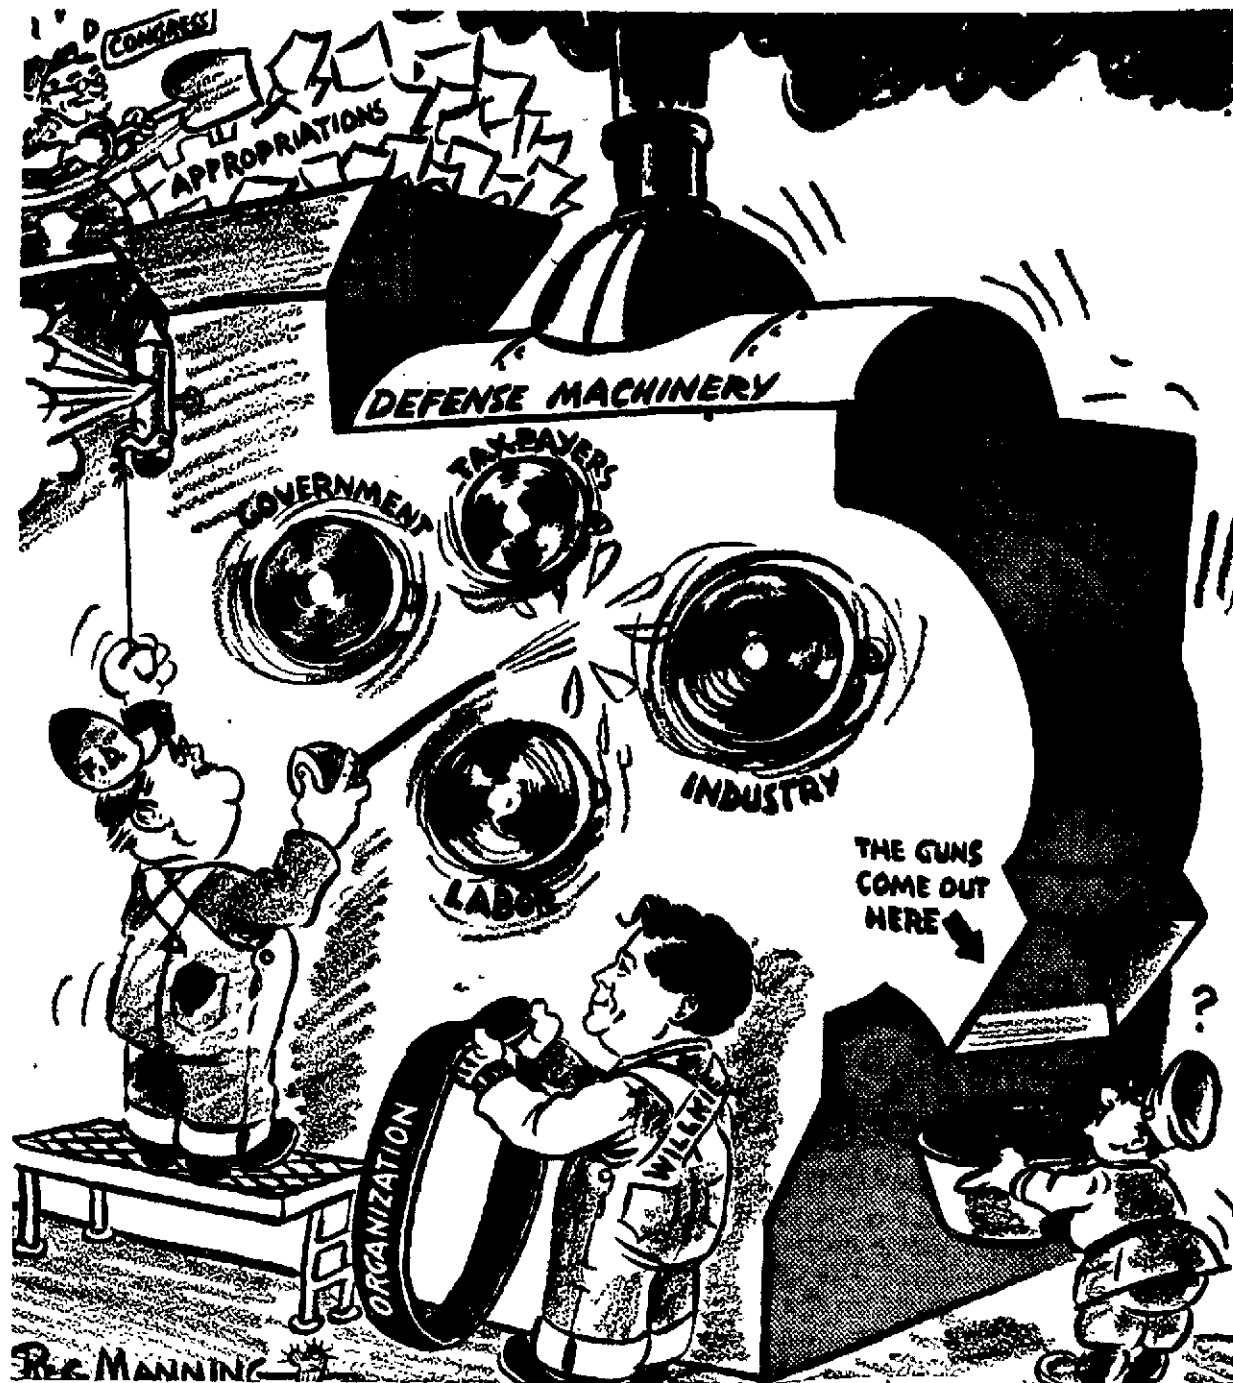

Naturalist George Marler was called. He discovered that Brilliant pool, near Daisy, was overflowing.

He constructed a small dam around Brilliant, raised the level two inches and soon Daisy shot a spout high into the air.

Marler concluded that water in underground channels that connect the pool and geyser probably had become "unbalanced," but all that was needed to restore order was the added pressure from the extra two inches of water.

What Really Mattered

Wouldn't It Help to Install the Belt?

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Those people of Wisconsin who are interested in state politics, and those Progressives who have a natural curiosity about Wyngaard next Tuesday.

One factor which makes the Progressive contest particularly interesting as the campaign concludes the final lap is the evenness of the race. It is quite possible to say today that any one of the five candidates will win the nomination, and in fact, opinion in the party is divided about five ways on the matter.

Predictions in the primary contest, would be rash because each candidate has certain assets which may bring him the victory.

RESPECTIVE WEIGHT

Loomis, for example, has the important advantage of having campaigned the state thoroughly on at least three previous occasions. He has been in state office before, carries along with him a campaign organization which has been tested previously.

But Harold Stafford, the Chipewa Falls contender, believes that Loomis' advantage in that respect can be, and has been, overtaken by his hard work. Stafford's campaign has been hard and determined, with all possible attention to publicity and advertising, as his campaign expenditures statement shows.

Phil Nelson banks on the reputation he won as a Progressive spokesman in the legislature. His rural route campaigning, and his Scandinavian name.

In plain, personal appeal on the stump and in the handshake, he has often been told, Nelson has advantages over his competitors, although his campaign has been less flashy, and has been given less attention than some of the others.

Yet there are other factors which Progressive analysts believe will figure in the outcome, and of these Alfonsi feels he can profit by several.

Alfonsi also has a state-wide acquaintance as a legislative leader, and a lot of clippings to show that he got considerable public and press attention while speaker of the lower house. He has strong ties with organized labor groups and some others which will figure significantly if there is a light primary vote. Nor has his campaign been lazy.

Finally there is Henry Gundersen, whose confidence of nomination can only be matched by the confidence of his competitors. Gundersen's obvious campaign advantages duplicate those of Loomis and Nelson in some respects. He has also made a state-wide campaign once before, and a successful one. And he has a Scandinavian name which many Progressives appear to think will be worth something in votes on election day.

The unusually large crop of candidates for district attorneys in almost every Wisconsin county this year, and the abundance of young Republican candidates for the office, recalls a story told by Judge August C. Hoppmann of the Dane county circuit court.

SCURVY COMMON AILMENT

Webster defines scurvy as "a disease characterized by a tendency to hemorrhage, especially into the skin and mucous membranes, and by a spongy condition of the gums, foul breath, loosening of the teeth, anemia and debility."

Outspoken scurvy is rare in this country today, but mild manifestations of the disease are quite common and in most instances the nature of the trouble is not recognized as scurvy.

In infant or adult development, scurvy the first symptoms are listlessness, lack of energy (mental and physical), failure of appetite, and irritability. Later come loss of weight (or in the infant failure to gain weight), weakness and pallor. Still later soreness or tenderness about knees and ankles, with some swelling above the ankles—a child may cry when the limbs are moved or handled, an adult may decide he or she has a touch of "rheumatism."

With the bone soreness, there is usually swelling, soreness and tendency to bleeding of the gums. Before definite signs of scurvy occur, the following symptoms may be looked for if any one gets too little vitamin C, according to Plimmer, noted English authority: Sallow, muddy complexion, loss of energy, flitting plains in joints and limbs, especially in the legs, usually mistaken for rheumatism. Plimmer asserts that so-called rheumatism in infants and young children has often been proved to be due to insufficient vitamin C and is really scurvy.

"Lime juice" has been a term for ships or sailors of the British navy since a surgeon (Lind) in the British navy proved that lemon or lime juice prevented scurvy; about the middle of the eighteenth century.

Orange juice, or nowadays tomato juice, is given to young infants as part of their daily diet, to prevent scurvy. Any fresh fruit or fresh fruit juice, and many fresh vegetables or their juices, taken raw or unheated, contain vitamin C. Cooking, prolonged heating, pasteurizing, sterilizing destroys vitamin C. Vitamin C in fruit juice deteriorates on standing as in the refrigerator over night; it is better to consume fresh fruit juice immediately after it is squeezed from the fruit. Cabbage, especially the outer green leaves, green leaves of celery, lettuce, tops of green onions, raw carrot, raw potato, raw turnip, are all good sources of vitamin C for the prevention and cure of any manifestation of scurvy. Raw milk from cows on pasture contains considerable vitamin C. Commercial canned tomato or tomato juice, or citrus juice, retains a large part of its vitamin C. The home canning process is more destructive to vitamin C than the vacuum process.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Goat's Milk Is Fine Food
In answering an inquiry in your column you said, "Goat's milk, if you like it, is quite as healthful as the highest grade cow's milk and in the raw state rather safer than cow's milk." That does not answer the question of special benefits derived from drinking goat's milk. . . .

Attention School Medical Inspector
Janitor in our school has sinus trouble. Does a great deal of coughing and spitting. What is the risk to school children who come more or less in contact with him day by day? (W. J.)

Answer—Perhaps the janitor has bronchitis, which often develops as a complication or consequence of long-standing sinusitis. Whether he is a menace to the persons closely associated with him is a question for the school medical inspector to determine. In any case no spitting should be tolerated in or around the school premises.

Dumb John Is Right

Maybe you'll call me a dumb John, but I suffer a good deal from corns and can't seem to find anything. (L. H. M.)

Answer—Paint each corn (or callus, or wart) every night for a week or ten nights with a solution of thirty grains of salicylic acid in one-half ounce of flexible collodion. Keep this off from neck of vial and cork or stopper and keep it off from normal skin surrounding corn. Of course you must stop wearing shoes that cause pressure or friction, or the corn will inevitably recur. Go barefoot as much as possible.

Beauty and You

DAILY CLEANSING—Daily thorough cleansing is the most important aid to beauty according to a famed beauty expert. Evelyn Young, appearing in "He Stayed for Breakfast," follows this rule and gives her complexion daily cream cleansing followed by a soap and water washing.

September skin usually looks like the last rose of summer. Behind that masque of tan or bronze which is beginning to lose its rich summer color, there is a true shade of skin several shades lighter. And only scheduled weekly treatments can restore the lovely texture and normal coloring.

Of course, those of you who live where the sun shines the year round, not enough to tan one's body, need not worry about reconditioning your face and neck—your problem is to keep your skin sufficiently lubricated so it will not become dry and wrinkle deeply. The rest of us must think of lubricating and bleaching and firming.

Four beauty aids are needed for autumn skin—an efficacious cleansing cream, an astringent to suit your skin type, an easily applied masque, and a protective cream for under make-up. I assume you always have on hand a bland, good soap and complexion brush, and ice.

Once a week at least for a month, if you cannot afford the delightful experience of a professional facial in a well-managed salon, you should devote an hour to skin pampering.

You should begin with a deep pore cream cleansing, using the cream lavishly and massaging your face and neck with slow, deep movements. Wipe it off and wash your face. Rinse it thoroughly in warm water only, dry, and apply your masque.

You must allow at least fifteen minutes for the masque to bleach and firm the tiny face muscles. Allow longer time if you can. Then remove it according to the directions which come with the masque you have chosen. Astringent, chilled, is then used.

Beauty Through Exercise
With your skin exquisitely clean and smooth, sit before your mirror and spend ten minutes on facial exercises. This will bring the blood rushing to your skin, the tiny muscles will be made more elastic through the scientific stretching, and your throat and lip muscles will be eased so you will speak in melody.

Then before you begin to make a pretty face with a bright new lipstick, rouge and powder, rub your skin softly with a piece of ice wrapped in a linen handkerchief. Dry the skin thoroughly and apply your protective cream which should be the same shade as your September skin tone!

Each day, between these weekly regular facials, clean your skin well with cream and soap and water. And lubricate it at night (or during day hours if you are free) with a rich cream or skin oil. Women over thirty especially, who have dry skin, should not neglect to lubricate it daily.

Miss Lindsay has two leaflets which will help your skin. "Facial Exercises" and a "Bleach for Darkened Skin." If you ask for one or both, write her care of this newspaper and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Good Taste Today

CHILDREN NEED LOVE

A reader tells me that she has legally adopted a boy who is twelve years old, and she is afraid that the problems have just begun. "Poor child," she writes, "he has been frightfully neglected. His manners are as bad as those of Mr. Tarkington's 'Little Orvie,' besides which he seems altogether lacking in any inherent aptitude to learn to be polite. We know very little about his forbears, and have only the assurance of strangers with whom he was left five years ago that his parents had been good people and were killed in an accident. We had two children of our own, both of whom we lost, and we couldn't resist this chance as a sort of memorial to them. If this boy were still a baby, I'm sure that everything would be quite easy, but this is really a problem in remodeling a life that doesn't even have the bond of blood. I don't want to be unfair with him, and yet if he is to carry our name, I do want him to be worthy of it. Can you write something helpful?"

Answer: I cannot help wondering why you went so far as to adopt the child before having acquired a better knowledge of his temperament and character than your letter suggests. But I hope for your sakes, as well as for his own, that it was (and is) an appealing link of sympathy which made you want to make him your son. Frankly, your question is one that I do not feel qualified to attempt to answer further than in certain obvious particulars. The first of these is the winning of his trust and love by being an unflinching friend to him and by really loving him. Second, by being admirable—not in the trivial things which most people mistakenly believe comprise the subject of behavior, but in the fundamental principles upon which the manners that are worth having must be built. Be fair, always, trying your utmost, WITHOUT ASKING PROBING QUESTIONS, to understand his point of view, to make him feel that you are his friends who can be counted on under all circumstances. Failing to Make Bid Is Grave Error

BY ELY CULBERTSON

We humans have a bad habit of judging errors of commission much more harshly than those of omission. This holds true of our bridge table philosophy also. When an atrocious bid results in a disastrous penalty, we censure the bidder severely. The player who fails to make a bid that fairly cries for self-expression, however, is just as guilty. The fact that his error is less obvious does not make it less heinous.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 club Pass 1 spade 2 hearts
3 spades 4 hearts 4 spades 5 diamonds
5 spades 6 hearts Double Pass
Pass Pass

The play was not interesting. West cashed his spade tricks and shifted to his singleton diamond. Declarer took the ace and drew trumps. Thus, the contract was defeated two tricks.

No one at the table had anything to say about the bidding, but as a spectator I noted the beautiful opportunity that South had let slip. I agree with his two heart bid over one spade, for despite the fact that his diamond suit was one card longer it would have been cumbersome to attempt first to bid diamonds and later to show hearts. Incidentally, West's double spade raise was an overbid.

It was East's four spade bid that South missed his chance. North had already supported hearts at the four level, and the assumption was that no better trump suit could be found. Why, then, waste a precious round of bidding by showing the diamonds? Since South intended pushing the bidding to the five level, anyway, he should have bid five diamonds or five clubs, to lay a defense against the opponents' agreed spade suit. He had not cue bid in the opponents' suit at the first opportunity, hence did not have to fear that North would assume South was showing an enormous hand with no losing clubs. North certainly would have recognized a five club bid on South's part as a desire to ruff clubs.

Should the opponents win the contract at spades, and North, with two aces, could safely have doubled five spades instead of making the sacrifice bid of six hearts. A five club bid was a clear case of nothing to lose and a great deal to gain.

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Cooler, possibility of light frost in some sections of the country is the way the weather reports read. Soon this will be changed to freezing weather on the way. Between these two reports is the time to get soil ready for spring plantings. Even if the weather remains mild, the gardener will have gained much by preparing his beds. The preparation, however, must not extend too far toward the finished stage.

Rough spading is the preparation to be done now. The ground should be turned over, manure added and the ground left in a rough state. Breaking up clumps is a foolish waste of time now because frosts will do this for you. The open soil structure makes it easy for frost to enter deeply into the soil and refine its texture.

Other advantages of leaving the soil rough are numerous. Not the least of these is the discomfort caused to many insects which attempt hibernation when the first cold nights appear. Many of them are killed by light frosts but if they are allowed to gradually harden themselves to cold weather they may persist over the hardest winter.

Roughage of any kind added to the roughly spaded ground is attacked by frost which acts as an essential agent in slowly tearing it down, much to the soil's benefit. The roughage used should be clean and as free from disease as possible, otherwise disease is grown for still another year.

To frost windows make a very strong solution of Epsom salts and vinegar. Apply it with a paint brush and when it is dry go over it with white varnish if you wish it to remain on for good.

too much. Be appreciative of everything in which he succeeds and be sure that in your criticisms you are generous as well as just. Don't make the mistake of dulling his ears with "don'ts," but show him that you trust him. Set the very best example you can, but whatever you do, DON'T EXPECT HIM TO BE, and don't attempt to make him in any way like either of your own sons. Take him for himself and at his own best—and above all love him as though he were a third real son of your own. If you don't and can't—it is rather late in the day to say it—but you should not have adopted him. In any case, you must now do your best.

Unfriendly Wife Great Handicap to Husband

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I had thought that my husband and I were unusually happily married, but now after 25 years together he has got involved with another woman. I don't know whether he is in love with her, or infatuated with her, or that he has just got into her toils, because I don't understand the situation. When I speak to him about it and urge him to break off with her, he bitterly denies that there is anything between them, or that he is ever with her. I know this is untrue, because I have seen them together myself and she has shown me numbers of love letters from him in his own handwriting, mentioning things that they spent together and planning later meetings. This woman wants me to divorce my husband. Says that he is miserable with me, but too loyal to me for all the years I have given and our fine children, now grown, to ask me for a divorce, but that if I would divorce him he would be happy with her, for he loves her. Do you think that is true? Do you think that my husband wants to leave me? Or does he want to quit this woman? Can a man get himself in that kind of a mess and not be able to break it at will? I would hate to think he was that spineless. I have lost my respect for him, but even so I still care so much for him that I know I would be more miserable away from him than I am with him. What shall I do?

Dorothy Dix

Answer: Yes, dear lady, there is no kind of folly that a man can't commit about a woman and no kind of a mess that he can't get himself in about one, and there is no other human being of whom he can be so much afraid.

My guess is that that is just the case with your husband. At middle age he heard that last call to the dining car and in a panic at thinking that youth and romance and adventure were about to leave him, he hopped aboard not thinking where the train would take him. He was just going for the ride.

Setting Her Lure

But it didn't turn out as innocently and harmlessly as he expected. There was a good-looking woman passenger who was his fellow traveler. She looked him over and ready for a fling and, oh well, it is the same old story you have heard thousands of times.

The man was a little tired of domesticity. He had worked hard all his life and never taken any time off to play. He had been as domestic as the house cat, devoted to his wife and children, but suddenly home-made bread and butter palled on his appetite and he hungered for a little caviar and cake, and he thought he would just have a bite and then go back to Maria and the kids and no harm would be done.

But the lady thought otherwise, and when he wanted to return to the bosom of his family the going wasn't so good. She held on to a good thing with both hands. She threatened scandal, the breaking up of his home, and the man discovered that, as the old phrase goes, he had tied a knot with his tongue that he couldn't untie with his teeth.

Men Fear Exposure

Many a man is caught in that sort of a snarl and it isn't love for the "other woman" that keeps him from breaking with her. It is because it is the bitterness of death to him to think of the breaking up of his home, of losing the wife who has given him a lifetime of devotion, of shaming his children, of having his good name smeared with scandal and being dragged through the newspapers, and being made a mockery and a ribald jest as an old fool who has had to pay for his folly.

Try to understand this and you won't think your husband so spineless because he doesn't break with the "other woman."

And of one thing you may be very sure, that he loves you, and has no idea of leaving you, or else he would ask for a divorce. Don't let this "other woman" put over her shrewd idea of getting you to divorce your husband. Hold on to your own.

Case Records of a Psychologist
By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Since we are chemical creatures, our moods and zest correspond to our internal condition. In the morning when our blood pressure is low, our pulse slow and our stomach full of swallowed mucus, we may feel blue and disinclined, even in our own mates, but a cup of coffee and a little brisk exercise make a big difference. If you want a sure cure for the blues, read my advice today.

CASE R-172: Hulda J., aged 27, is a musician of some marked talent. "There are times, however, when I feel neutral toward life," she admitted. "I feel neither happy nor glad. At a time like that I have sort of a detached regard for myself and all the world. Death doesn't seem ominous."

"Indeed, I think I could easily swallow poison at such a time and leave the world altogether. 'But when I get started playing the piano, I snap out of this mood, and may feel fine at the conclusion of the number. Dr. Crane, how do you explain this?'"

DIAGNOSIS:

We are chemical creatures, so we often reflect in our moods the internal glandular changes and physiological conditions that are taking place.

A man with a gnawing stomach or an ulcer is likely to be in an irritable, snappish mood. Fill that stomach or neutralize the gastric juice with alkali, and he feels much more benevolent and magnanimous.

That fact has long been appreciated in courtship where we have an old adage to the effect that the quickest way to a man's heart is by way of his stomach.

Salesmen, too, know that prospects will buy more readily if they are relaxed and genial at the conclusion of a delicious meal. When they lean back to light their cigars or cigarettes, they are feeling kindly toward the world in general.

How to Be Happy

Inactivity promotes sluggishness of the internal physiological processes, and the correlate of the latter is often a disinterest in life.

Casual Slaughters

By Virginia Hanson

YESTERDAY: Sandra arrives at the Penmanis party elaborately costumed and with a black eye. Everyone is shocked and gives Jeff the cold shoulder. Kay explains to Julia that Sandra has been sharing her room.

Chapter 30

THE NEXT VICTIM

Julia flushed to the edge of her sun-bleached hair and turned to busy herself at the mirror. But even under the layer of powder she was applying her cheeks were slow in cooling and her hands trembled as she tried to shape her mouth with lipstick.

"That doesn't mean anything," she said at last in a strangled voice. "I don't pretend to know what's behind it, but you needn't believe everything she says. She's not afraid of him. She's not afraid of anything. She hasn't got sense enough to be—she thinks she's too good."

She paused, smoothing her lips with her little finger, and I pondered that remark. It was odd that she should think that of Sandra too. It agreed with a vague feeling I had formed.

"And I don't believe he'd ever lay a hand on her, no matter what she did to him," Julia went on valiantly. "She used to get into the most terrible rages at him when we were kids. I've seen her kick his shins and scratch and claw and bite. I used to think she was trying to get him to hit her so she could tell and see him punished. But he'd just shield his face with his arms, and when he got a chance he'd grab her wrists and hold her until she'd begin to cry and say he was hurting her. Oh, she was always a devil!"

We went back to the party after that, and Gerald and I rallied around Jeff. I don't know that I was entirely convinced of his innocence by Julia's eloquence, but I was willing to reserve judgment. And I particularly hate to see anyone boycotted at a party.

He was smoldering with impotent jealousy and envy, and when it fills a heart with gall it is bound to overflow on whoever is nearest.

A wife who makes enemies instead of friends for her husband is a terrible handicap to him, and especially is this true in a small community where everyone knows everybody else and kissing goes largely by favor. People go to such and such a wife is so popular. Or they call in Dr. So-and-so because Mrs. So-and-so is such a dear.

Certainly a man is to be pitied who has a wife with a serpent's tongue, but, alas, there is nothing that can be done about it.

Court Honorably, or Not at All

Dear Miss Dix—I fell in love with a young man, but after going with him for some time I have found out that he is married. He says that he isn't living with his wife and that the reason he didn't tell me he was married was because he knew I wouldn't go with him if I knew he had a wife. Do you think I am doing wrong in going with him?

A GIRL

I think you are being very foolish because you are letting a man who can't marry you monopolize your affections and keep you from having attentions from men who could marry you.

Tell this man to keep away until he has gotten a divorce and can court you honorably. He has already shown you that he is not to be trusted, so he is a bad risk any way you look at it.

No Sound to Tell
I rejected Gerald's half-hearted offers of further amusement and I undressed as I reached my room. I was exhausted and must have gone to sleep, for I did not hear Sandra come in; did not know, when something woke me a couple of hours later, whether she had come to bed at all.

I lay still in the cryptic darkness, wondering what had disturbed me, listening for Sandra's breathing in the other bed. For a moment I heard nothing, then I saw that there was a thread of dim light around the door into the sitting room; and presently I detected faint little sounds of someone moving about in there.

She was restless, I decided, and had gone in there to keep from waking me. I had left the door open when I went to bed, to encourage what little breeze there was that hot night. I toyed with the idea of getting up and opening it again, letting her know that I was awake. But to do so might dispel the lassitude that would let me drift back to sleep. And as I still looked at the door the rim of light around it vanished and there was silence. Had she gone back to Jeff, after all, or was she lying on the studio couch, in a darkness peopled by unhappy thoughts?

There was no sound to tell me—no click of the door, no stirring of springs under a restless body. Perhaps she had gone to sleep. In the night and silence my own eyes closed and presently I ceased to think.

It was broad daylight when I had the answer to my question. I awoke late and dressed hurriedly to get to breakfast before the mess hall closed. I noticed, between brush strokes, that Sandra's bed had not been slept in, but I had no occasion to go into the sitting room until, dressed and ready for breakfast, I dashed through on my way to the corridor.

I almost fell over her. She was lying on her face, nearly in front of the corridor door, as if she had pitched through it and someone had closed it behind her. Someone who had left her lying there in her blood-soaked white robe, the handle of a butcher knife vertical between her shoulder blades.

A horrible sound tore from my throat. I had to step over her to get to the door, to open it and totter out into the hall. Gerald was coming, running toward me on quick, light feet, his face white, his eyes hard. I managed to wait until he got to me, then I fainted abjectly in his arms.

Under Arrest
Jeff was put under arrest that morning. Mimi had called me up to insist that I spend the rest of my visit under their roof, and when Julia came for me at eleven o'clock, she was white and wild eyed with news.

"Dad's orders," she said tragically as I got into the car. "And Kay, he really thinks Jeff did it!"

"Does that mean he's been turned over to the civil authorities, or put in the guardhouse, or what?"

"Neither one. They don't put officers in the guardhouse, as a rule, and the civil authorities can't come on a post and arrest a member of the garrison. Dan could have put Jeff in arrest in quarters, which would simply have meant he was on his honor not to leave his rooms, but for some reason he's put him in the prison ward of the hospital, with a guard over him."

"He doesn't think Jeff is insane?" I asked startled.

"I don't think so."

"On what charge was he arrested?"

"Murder. I suppose—or maybe he hasn't been charged yet; I wouldn't know about the red tape. But Kay, he didn't do it! I know he didn't. I tell you, I know Jeff He's not cruel and mean; he's kind. He's got a conscience—too much conscience. I used to tell him He takes everything terribly to heart. He couldn't murder anybody, even if they deserved it. He just couldn't!"

She was almost crying.

"But Julia, your father must have reasons—and think how lucky Jeff is."

"Lucky?"

"Yes, lucky. Suppose he was being bullied by a lot of hard-boiled policemen and a district attorney who were determined to get a confession. At least he's among friends. Your father is fond of him. He'll see that Jeff gets a square deal."

She turned her eyes from the road to give me a reproachful look.

"You, too," she accused. "You think he's guilty!"

"No, I don't know what the evidence is against him. I hardly know him! All I know is what you've told me. I hope he isn't guilty. But if he isn't, Julia—who is?"

"I don't know," she said slowly. "And I don't much care as long as Jeff isn't. I can't help it if that shocks you. You haven't seen, as I have, what she's done to Jeff. Even by dying she gets him into trouble. I wonder—No, she couldn't have done it herself, could she? I mean, so he'd pay for it. I guess I'm thinking pretty wild."

"I thought you said she loved him."

"Maybe I was wrong about that. Or maybe something made her change. That black eye, Kay; that was malicious. She could have said she was ill. And to show it off like that, theatrically—"

"She could have at least disguised it with make-up," I admitted, thinking of that for the first time. "She must have had some experience making up for the stage."

"She had an elaborate make-up kit. I saw it when she unpacked. And some stuff you paint on with a brush, to cover blemishes. There was a little blemish on her forehead, and when she wore her hair a certain way it showed. I tell you, she did it on purpose!"

"Julia! You don't suppose it was make-up—I mean, that she deliberately painted on a black eye?"

"No," she said slowly. "That wouldn't fool anyone on close inspection. Especially—especially when they examined the body."

We were silent for a few minutes. I was thinking over what she had said about not caring who the murderer was, so long as it

Pamelled Dress

BY ANNE ADAMS

That really EXPENSIVE look is achieved only through expertly treated simplicity. Pattern 4575 is an outstanding example of this rule—a clever creation by Anne Adams. It's cut most simply, but with becoming soft lines given by curved yokes and a deep V-neck. The spotlight of interest plays on that well-shaped center panel with its subtle, shimmering effect on your figure. (You may give it dramatic emphasis by making it in contrast.) Side-front waist seams result in soft bodice fit, a neat waistline and extra action-freedom in the slim skirt. Your sleeves may be short, three-quarter or long. A soft crepe or sheer wool would be perfect for this striking style.

Pattern 4575 is available in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. 4-H Club Holds 13th Meeting on 13th and It's Friday Besides

Instead of bowing to superstition and avoiding Friday, the thirteenth, as a meeting date the Wide Awake Forward 4-H club defied the jinx by holding its thirteenth meeting of the season last night at the home of Donald Uhlenbrauck, route 2, Black Creek.

Plans were discussed for the club's annual round-up in October when members will exhibit work done during the year for the inspection of their parents and friends. La Verne Kreutzman, Carlton Wiekert and Doris Tiedt will plan the entertainment for that meeting and Marion Wiekert and Rita Henke the refreshments.

Some of the young people worked last night on record books which are to be completed by Oct. 1. A period of community singing followed and Mrs. John Uhlenbrauck served a lunch.

Willkie Swings Into Corn Belt

He gave his impromptu talks. The last of these came at dusk to a gathering in a Negro ball park. "At every opportunity," Willkie told the crowd, "I have struck at all types of intolerance that have come my way. The Negro people are entitled to every right that every other citizen is entitled to. "I elected, I will see that relief is continued—without discrimination—until we can get the wheels of industry started."

In all his talks he declared that his election would mean "more and more jobs, and as the years go on, higher and higher wages."

Willkie told a gathering near the Carnegie-Illinois steel plant that the country "cannot get strong through a process of spending and wasting more money."

"Do you want spinach or work?" he shouted.

Asserts Local Issues Extremely Important
Wauwatosa — (?) — William C. Maas, Republican candidate for the United States senatorial nomination, declared last night that the "extreme seriousness" of the European situation makes local elections and local issues more important than ever before.

"What is done by our local units of government and by our state and national governments in the levying of taxes and the spending of money will have a far greater effect on the average voter than affairs on the other side of the ocean," Maas said.

In all his talks he declared that his election would mean "more and more jobs, and as the years go on, higher and higher wages."

Zephyrs to Open '40 Grid Season Sunday Night

St. Mary's to Play Milwaukee Negro High At Butte des Morts

Menasha—St. Mary's High school griders will open the 1940 football season at 8 o'clock Sunday night under the lights at Butte des Morts field. St. Benedict High school, a Milwaukee Negro school, will provide the opposition. The Zephyrs will go into the game with only two weeks of preparation under two new coaches, Fred Trish and Joseph Kores. Indications are that the Zephyrs will have a big, heavy and experienced line but the backfield may be questionable.

Probable starters for the Zephyrs in their first game will be: Norbert Giesen at center, Wilbur Foth and Virgil Lingnoff at tackles, Robert Birling and Sylvester Burghardt at guards and Leo Miller and Tom Verbrink at ends.

The backfield may have Don Hoks at quarterback, Len Schipferling and Al Taves at the halves and Farnham Johnson at fullback. There probably will be numerous substitutions both in the line and the backfield with James Brethauer, Frank Slaniak, Jerome Laux, and Emmett Hoks in the backfield.

Little is known of the St. Benedict High football team. The Zephyrs met the Negro players in basketball last year and ran up an easy victory. The St. Benedict squad was fast although the players were not very large.

A week later the Zephyrs will open their conference season, traveling to meet the St. Joseph Indian school in an afternoon game. The Indians were the only conference team to score against the Zephyrs last season, turning the trick against a reserve lineup.

Appleton, Menasha Gridders Engage in Intensive Workout

Menasha—Appleton and Menasha High school griders scrimmaged at Butte des Morts field in the first intensive drills of the year for both squads. The drill was informal with a number of plays and then another group taking over. Fumbles and intercepted passes did not change possession of the ball.

Five coaches from the two schools were on the field while the players drilled and stopped action in the middle of a play to indicate honors. Both teams crossed their opponents' goal once. No attempts were made at extra points or at kick-offs.

Coach N. A. Calder used his entire squad of 40 players except three who reported for drill the first time Thursday. Roland O'Brien gave indications that he will be one of the backfield stars of the Northwestern Wisconsin conference this year. The ends probably will be better than last year but the line varied, sometimes stopping plays cold while at other times big holes were torn in the Menasha front wall.

Some sessions in pass defense also were indicated while on pass offense the Bluejays connected for several short gains.

Ashurst, Graceful in Defeat, Shows Real Spirit of Democracy

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington—We hear much now about what democracy is and what it should be, but the spirit of it rarely has been illustrated better than in the attitude of Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst of Arizona, speaking in the senate on the day after he was defeated for re-election.

He had served as senator ever since Arizona became a state. After 28 years in office a man might well come to think himself indispensable. Some reach that state of mind in much less time.

Instead of resenting the decision of his state to dispense with him, Senator Ashurst thanked his people for having allowed him to serve so long. If we are to remain a free people, Senator Ashurst told the senate, it is the duty of public servants to accept defeat cheerfully, which he proceeded to do in one of the most remarkable speeches heard in a long time.

Ability to change our officials, and prompt acceptance of change, with a willingness on all sides to make the best of the new situation, are necessary to effective democracy. Had the verdicts of the country in 1932 and 1936 been received with more of that spirit among powerful figures in our busy life and among those who show the capacity to deserve it. Lesser men must toe the line and that is not always good for either the constituents, the public official or the country.

In a time of such confusion as this, when the difficulty of understanding today is exceeded only by that of seeing into tomorrow, public officials must be allowed much latitude by the country. It is not so much a question of which has the better judgment, the official or the public, as it is one of which has the better information. That was possibly the advantage that President Roosevelt had over those senators who in the summer last year ridiculed his idea that there might be a war in Europe.

Unwillingness to Give Up Power is a Curse
In a third respect, too, Senator Ashurst tells us something about what democracy should be. He does not say it in so many words, but it is implicit in the whole tenor of his half-humorous, mildly self-deprecating remarks, in his philosophical acceptance of the shift from important office to private life, Senator Ashurst bears gracefully the ordeal of having his power snatched off. For most public men that is an excruciating operation, accompanied by loud cries of pain and by scars that leave them forever unhappy, damaged souls.

Unwillingness to surrender power is a curse of civilization, the root of ages of trouble. Some men find the appetite irresistible. They will sacrifice everything else to hold their power. This is seen in its rawest form in dictatorships, and in more subtle form in democracy. Wars have been precipitated, crises manufactured, enemies murdered, and countries have been sacrificed by men desperate to hold their power. Senator Ashurst seems able to take it or leave it with equal grace.

He said: "When my present colleagues here are worrying about patronage, worrying about committee assignments, and about the scorching demands of constituents, I shall possibly be enjoying the desert night, or viewing the scarlet glory of her blossoming cactus, and possibly I may be wandering through the petrified forest, a forest which put on immortality 7,000,000 years ago. Enjoyment and ecstasy arise in human life from the contemplation and appreciation of such things."

But this noble example will be wasted on a world now cursed with the evil and brutal fruits of power-crazed leaders. Senator Ashurst would be the last to write himself down as a great and eventful statesman, yet within the range of his capacity he breathes, as the foregoing points suggest, the spirit of ideal democracy, which if it were more common now would make this world more tolerable. But that is only a day-dream of what might have been.

The celebration department of the Appleton Post-Crescent is represented in Clintonville by James Rohr, 48 Main street. Orders for subscriptions may be left with him. Subscribers missed by carrier should call Mr. Rohr, telephone 2871, before 7 p. m.

Weekly Review of Business

Good Picture Taking Does Not Require Expensive Equipment

It is a well-known fact among leading photographers that, while fine, expensive equipment is of real aid in making snapshots and taking pictures it is entirely possible with the most modest equipment, points out Frank Koch, head of the Koch Photo Shop, 231 E. College avenue.

After all, Mr. Koch reminds, it is the photographer not the camera which is the real factor in picture-taking. As a matter of fact, the fewer adjustments to be made on moderately priced equipment make it easier for the average picture-snapper to concentrate on his subject rather than on his camera. By spending a little time learning the simple rules of photography a great deal more may be had out of picture-taking with less wasted film.

The "trick" to taking a good picture, then, is in knowing how to use whatever camera is at the taker's disposal. The way is easy, incidentally, for Koch's shop has always made it a point to give sound advice to customers who requested it, and for a small amount of money Koch offers an interesting easy-to-understand book that will pay its costs back many times in good pictures with a minimum of "spoiled" shots.

Koch's is the only exclusive photo supply shop in the vicinity. Professional and advanced amateur photographers have made it their headquarters for years and the photographic beginners will be wise to follow their lead particularly since it costs no more.

Plenty of Potential Business Is Found For Well Industry

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The well construction industry can enjoy a boom by exploiting existing opportunities for business, according to the state board of health.

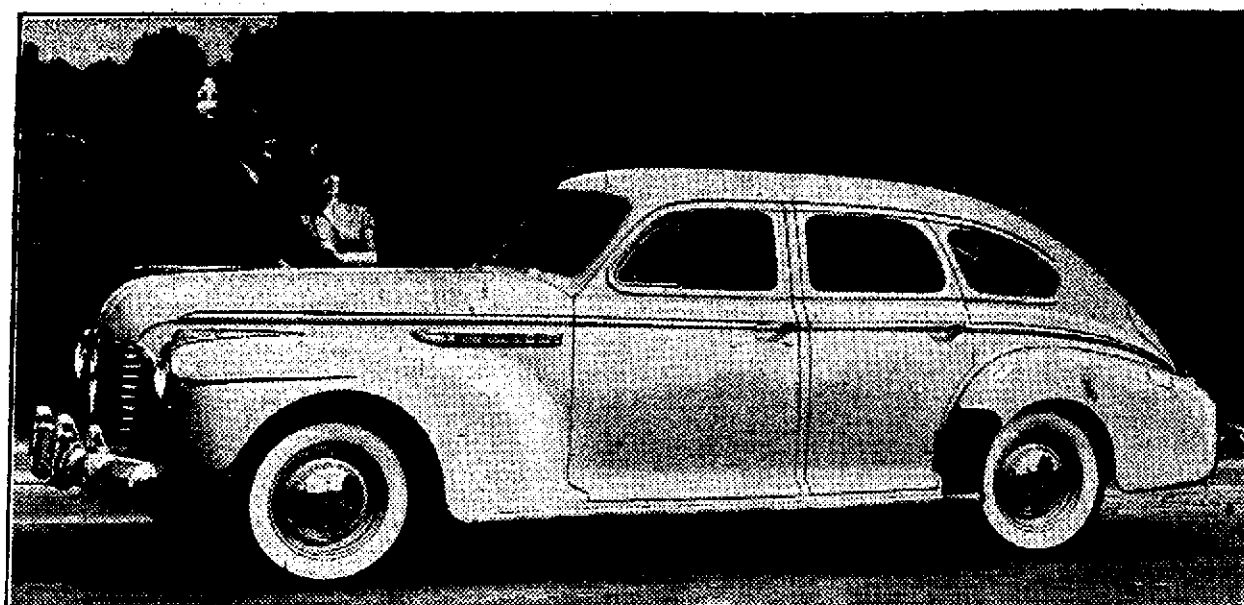

There are at least 50,000 wells in Wisconsin which are either periodically or permanently polluted as a result of defective construction, but which can be effectively and permanently remedied at an average cost of about $70 each by means of proper cement grouting procedures, the board said.

"This would mean that there is available to competent well construction men a potential volume of business amounting to more than $3,000,000. Since the cost of reconstructing an existing well is approximately 80 per cent less than the cost of a new well, owners of wells in need of reconstruction will be interested in such a program," the board's bulletin concluded.

AERODYNAMIC STYLING FOR 1941 BUICK—With the announcement of its 1941 cars, the Buick division of General Motors introduces an entirely new line of aerodynamic bodies taking full advantage of modern principles of streamlining. Shown above is the series 40 Special six-passenger sedan with unbroken lines flowing from the windshield to the rear bumper in a contour similar to that of the wing section of the larger air-liners. Despite an increase in power and performance, the new line of cars shows a vast step-up in economy, due to the newly developed "Fireball" engine and compound carburetion, an exclusive Buick feature. The new models are now on display at the O. R. Kloehe company, 210 N. Morrison street, Buick distributors.

Free Pick Up and Delivery System Proves Popular

Fall is tune up time for automobiles and drivers who are economy wise will do well to give special attention to their cars at this time suggests Weiland's Super Standard Service Station, corner of East college avenue and South Durkee street.

Those automobile owners who are proud of their cars and want to keep them in first class condition will be interested in this reminder of the complete lineup of services which Weiland's maintain. They know the value of preparing their cars for the new season just ahead . . . and the protection it affords the car and the increased satisfaction in operation.

A good percentage of Weiland's long list of satisfied customers merely phone the station and say, "Pick up my car in the morning and give it that complete Standard lubrication job." These customers know that they can depend on the Standard lubricants and know that the attendants who actually perform the job are equally dependable. Weiland's are proud of these customers for they prove the value of giving all of its customers the finest lubricants and motor fuels and all the little extra services, such as wiping off windows, checking oil and water, keeping tires at the correct pressure, its free pickup and delivery service on the automobile plus many other services which on the surface may appear minor but actually are very important to the condition of the car and solves tune up problems.

Every lubricating job which Weiland's perform involves going over the car from stem to stern to make sure that its driver will not have to undergo the expense of another lubricating job for at least a 1,000 miles. This is made doubly certain through its use of a lubricant that's twice as tough as ordinary grease and its thoroughness practically assures a quiet, smooth and effortless running of the car.

Therefore, Weiland's suggest that you drive your car in today or phone 1399 and they'll pick up and deliver your car when finished without charge for the chauffeur service.

TEN MILES AN HOUR—"Doubting Thomases" at the turn of the century said the "horseless carriage" wasn't feasible, and sixty-eight years ago A. Montgomery Ward was warned that he would fail when he founded the first mail order house in the world. The "horseless carriage" was sold by Montgomery Wards soon after the invention of the automobile, and from models of this type evolved today's streamlined motor cars. So, too, in the merchandising field, one man's ideas evolved into a nation-wide merchandising organization that this month celebrates its 68th Anniversary in 625 stores scattered throughout the United States. The anniversary sale which is now in progress will continue through all of next week in the local Ward store as well as in Ward stores everywhere.

Sears Purchases In Wisconsin Show Increase

Figures Revealed In Connection With Stores Anniversary

A 38 per cent jump in Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s purchases of Wisconsin made merchandise during 1939, was revealed today by Clark T. Teel, manager of the Sears store in this city.

Sharing in this company's expenditure of $17,031,725 for merchandise bought within the state were 192 manufacturing concerns located in 46 cities and towns.

The figures released by Mr. Teel were drawn from a special report sent out by Sears' parent offices in connection with the company's 54th anniversary which will be celebrated from September 12 to September 26. The report also showed that this concern's total expenditures in Wisconsin during last year amounted to $19,249,891, an increase of 34 per cent.

Of this amount $1,488,400 went towards the salaries and wages of resident employees; $350,473 for newspaper advertising; $379,293 for rents and taxes, and the remainder for merchandise.

Above Average
During the past five years, 1935 to 1939, Sears expenditures in Wisconsin have averaged $16,928,537 annually. The amount expended by the company last year was 18 per cent above this average.

"It was very pleasing to learn from this report on expenditures that Sears spent large sums of money in this state last year not only for manufactured merchandise but also for wages and salaries, rents, taxes, and newspaper advertising," said Mr. Teel.

"As a resident of Wisconsin it is only natural that I should view such expenditures with much personal satisfaction for I know that in this way Sears is contributing to the economic growth and the economic betterment of the state as a whole."

Among other items contained in the study and reported by Mr. Teel were figures showing that out of the more than 7,000 manufacturing concerns with whom Sears deals, about 150 have been selling their products to the company for 30 years or more; 350 between 25 and 30 years; 1,100 between 15 and 25 years; and 2,000 between 10 and 15 years.

During the last year in continuing to extend its merchandise purchases over the widest possible geographical area Sears purchased manufactured merchandise from 44 states and the District of Columbia. Although the remaining four states, being almost entirely agricultural in their production, contributed nothing in the way of manufactured merchandise, Sears' indirect purchases of leather, woolen and cotton materials from these areas were substantial.

In addition to providing rent and tax figures by states, the study also pointed out that last year Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s total tax bill—including federal, state and local taxes—amounted to $18,818,983. This was the equivalent of $260 in taxes for every employee, or $3.02 in taxes for every $100 in net sales.

Blue Eagles Open Football Season Here Sunday Night

The 1940 football season will be led into Appleton tomorrow night at Spencer street field by the city's first night contests.

The evening will get underway at 7:15 when the Blue Eagles, sponsored by the South Side Athletic club, and composed of grade school youngsters, take on the Grove All-Stars of Menasha. The teams met last week with Menasha winning and the local youngsters are out for revenge.

At 8:30 the youngsters will give way to the Appleton Blue Eagles, the senior outfit sponsored by the south side and the opponent will be the Fond du Lac Osceles. The game is a scheduled contest in the Eastern Marine league, organized a few weeks ago.

Appleton's league entry has been working for several weeks under direction of Ralph Barfell, Lawrence griddier of several years ago, and organizer of the Appleton Reds.

The gridders are largely former Appleton high players with a group of the better performers hereabouts to top them off. The backfield will have Ray Brash, mainstay in last year's Appleton high backfield, at the right half position. Carlton Tracy, a veteran of semi-pro ball, will be at left half with Al Boof of Little Chute and Marquette U. at fullback. Sonny Filz, Appleton high ball carrier of the last couple seasons, will work at quarter.

Among the linemen are Jimmy Larson, high school end, and Don Green, who was an all-conference guard in high school, moved to tackle because of his experience. Fond du Lac's squad also will show several former Fond du Lac High school stars and two former Marquette U. gridders, Al Schults.

Ted Gullic, Milwaukee outfielder, and Ollie Bejma also homered in the first game.

A triple by Harold Peck and Claude Corbett's infield single in the first inning scored the only run of the afterpiece.

Sophomores Making It Tough for M. U. Vets

Milwaukee —(P)—Twenty promising sophomores are making life tough for Marquette University's veteran footballers.

So far the newcomers have not succeeded in ousting the letter-men from their positions, but competition allows no slacking.

Best of the young crop are Al Klug, of Milwaukee, Edmund Geraghty, of Austin, Minn., Franklin Schwere, of Shawano, all ends; Gordon Myster, of Green Bay, Jack Peifer, of Wauwatosa, and Edwin Reck, of Milwaukee, tackles; and Clair Voss of Antigo, for center.

Of the veterans, Robert Hick, of Juneau, and Robert Dams, of Milwaukee, backs.

Stauss Named As Successor To Iowa Star

Anderson Says Soph Is More Versatile Than Nile Kinnick

BY TOM SILER
Chicago —(P)—Football practice is less than a week old in the Big Ten, but Eddie Anderson at Iowa already has come to a rather definite conclusion on the successor to Nile Kinnick at left halfback on the Hawkeye eleven.

Bill Stauss is the lad's name and he's 6 feet, 2 and weighs 190 pounds. Stauss, a sophomore, is much more versatile than Kinnick. No. 1 player of the 1939 season, but whether he has the graduated ace's gridiron "touch" is something else.

Anderson's "find" resides at Creston, Ia., where he was all-state in football and basketball and where he was a prep standout in passing, running and kicking.

Stauss already is running on the tentative varsity machine with three others fighting to replace him—Jim Youel, Tom Farmer and Bob Bender.

Two Ohio State Buckeyes are taking it easy as the defending champions brush up on fundamentals. Tackle Thornton and end Frank Clair are idle with a groin injury.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin yesterday named his first team for today's scrimmage. Dick Thornally, tackle, being the only sophomore in the group. Wallace Keating, sophomore, who joined up with the Wolverines Friday to bolster the Michigan squad Friday after being out with an injury, but isn't expected to see action in today's scrimmage.

George Franck returned to the Minnesota squad Friday after being out with an injury, but isn't expected to see action in today's scrimmage. Northwestern's Wildcats put on a long aerial drill with sophomore Otto Graham sharing the honors with Bill de Correvont. Red Hahnenstein and Don Kruger.

The University of Illinois lost 12 of its most dependable halfbacks when Jimmy Smith, junior of Muncyphors, withdrew from the squad to undergo a knee operation. He will be out all season.

Wehrle Loses Amateur Match

Shoots 40 for One Nine at National Tourney Yesterday

Mamaroneck, N. Y. —(P)—A couple of young gentlemen who were born with silver spoons in their mouths and who teetted on two-inch golf club steaks, met politely on the Winged Foot course today in the 36-hole final match for the national amateur championship.

Neither Richard Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., nor Warrington Bannerman McCulloch, Jr., of Philadelphia, ever caddied a day in his life. Neither of them even is from "across the tracks" but they were in the final today, Dick and "Duff".

Though he has been deadly serious about golf for the past 16 years, "Duff" never entirely made his mark until yesterday, when he obliterated Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, 5 and 3, in a 36-hole semifinal. Billows, who had been an amateur finalist in two of the past three years, lost to the rank outsider who shot an atrocious course.

Chapman won a daffy semi-final from Wilford Wehrle of Chicago, 3 and 2. Wehrle, who, next to Marvin Ward, generally is considered the best amateur in the country, had Chapman live down at the end of the first nine holes.

And then Chapman caught fire and shot a two-under-par 34 on the next nine holes, while Wehrle soared to 40. Chapman won six holes and forced one-up at the lunch period. Though he recovered somewhat in the afternoon and fought back valiantly, Wehrle never managed to square the match.

Weyauwega Grid Prospects Bright

Weyauwega — Increased interest in Weyauwega High school football is evidenced by the spirit and enthusiasm of the squad of over 20 gridders that reports to Coach Ron Murray each afternoon. The squad will be augmented by several more players as soon as additional suits arrive. This is only the second year that football has been an organized sport here.

While two games have been scheduled for six-man football, lack of prospective opponents tend toward the possibility that Weyauwega may take part in the regular eleven-man sport before the end of the present gridiron season. It depends upon what schedule arrangements can be made.

The two contests on the docket are both with Winneconne in a home-and-home arrangement. Winneconne will play here Friday, Oct. 4, while the Indians will invade the village on the banks of the Wolf river, Saturday, Oct. 26. Other

Milwaukee Pro Team In First League Tilt

Milwaukee —(P)—The Milwaukee Chiefs open their American Professional Football league season against the Columbus Bullies at State Fair park tomorrow.

After a week of hard practice, Coach Tiny Cahoon said his squad was ready for the engagement, and scheduled only light lumbering up exercises for today.

The Bullies, defending league champions, featuring the fancy halfbacks of future Joe Williams, late of Ohio State, and Bob Davis, University of Kentucky star.

Canoe Trip Down Wolf River Is Recommended by Wardens

THIS WEEK'S GAMES
Coated Paper 12, Fox River 1. (Second round title.)

SUNDAY'S GAME
10:30—Atlas versus Pond Sports (third round title.)

Coated Papers punned the collective Fox River ears back and won the second round Industrial league title by a 12 to 1 score at Roosevelt school diamond last evening. Diervet mounded for the winners and gave up but four hits while striking out eight. Bruggeman was behind the plate. Mitchell, Rammer and Murphy tried their hands at hurling for the losers. Arndt doing the backstopping.

Atlas Mill will tangle with Pond Sports in a third round championship game at 10:30 Sunday morning at Roosevelt school diamond. The tilt, much in the nature of a grudge battle, originally was carded for Monday afternoon.

Wolves Face Tough Card as Yost's Career Nears Its End

(This is another in a series of articles on major college football prospects)

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA
Ann Arbor, Mich. —(P)—As it marks the final year of active duty for Athletic Director Fielding H. Yost, the 1940 football season will be no ordinary one at the University of Michigan.

The silver-thatched Yost, whose point-a-minute teams shook the football world after the turn of the century, will complete 40 years of service at Michigan this year. He will be retired automatically after his 70th birthday anniversary next April.

Under the direction of Coach H. O. Fritz, Crisler, heir-apparent to Yost's job, the Wolverine eleven will engage in a stern eight-game schedule starting with an inter-scholastic battle with the University of California Sept. 26 at Berkeley. The Michigan squad will travel to the west coast by airplane for the first time.

Crisler's squad includes 13 letter-men, headed by Tom Harmon, all-American halfback, but as in 1939 appears to lack reserves.

Other backfield veterans are Capt. Forrest Evashevski, 198-pound quarterback whose services proved indispensable last year, and fullbacks Bob Westfall and Bob Zimmerman.

Tigers Again Humble Yanks

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press
Al Milnar, Indians — Scattered three hits to beat the Red Sox 1-0. Thornton Lee and Jack Hallett, White Sox—Former hurled seven hits and latter a eight hitter to stop Athletics twice.

Bill Trotter, Browns—Went the route for the first time this season to beat Washington 7-3.

Tommy Bridges, Tigers—Limited pennant-hungry Yanks to six hits, in beating them 8-0.

Ed Head, Dodgers—A seven hit performance against the Pirates gave him his first victory of the season.

Joe Beggs, Reds—His fine relief pitching gave the Reds another victory and handed the Giants their fourth straight setback.

Kirby Higbe, Phillies — Pitched the Phils to 6-1 win over Chicago Cubs for thirteenth triumph of the season.

Lon Barneke, Cards—Held Boston Braves to eight hits as Red Birds rebounded from previous day's losses.

Twice they have stopped the New York Yankees, the last time yesterday by a humiliating 8-0 shutout as little Tommy Bridges curve-balled the Yanks into helplessness. That was the Tigers' eighth victory in the last nine times out and the fifth straight win over their two toughest foes, the Indians and the Yankees.

Bridges was touched for three solid blows in the first two innings, but after that the Yankees didn't get a man past first base. The Tigers pounded out 16 hits, including Hank Greenberg's 33rd homer, to hand Marvuss Kusso his first defeat in his last eight starts.

Meanwhile the second-place Cleveland Indians stayed close to the Yanks as Al Milnar and Boston's young Jim Bagby hooked up in the day's finest pitching duel. Milnar's three-hit win out by a 1-0 score over Bagby's two-hitter because the Indians bunched singles by Roy Weatherly and Jeff Heath, so that Weatherly scored the only run while a double-play was erasing Heath.

The only blow off Milnar, who has now won 16 and lost 8, were singled by Jimmy Foxx, Joe Cronin and Rogers Cramer.

Chi Sox Take Fair
The Chicago White Sox crept into fourth place by running their victory string to five straight with a pair of victories over the Athletics, 6-2 and 6-4. The Sox relied on steady pitching by Thornton Lee and Jack Hallett, a righthander making his major-league debut.

Bill Trotter of the Browns, ordinarily a relief hurler, went the distance for the first time this season and smuffed out the Washington Senators, 7-3.

When the National league firing was over the Cincinnati Reds were still 8 games ahead of the Dodgers. The Reds kept their pace by whipping Carl Hubbell and the Giants 5-2.

The Dodgers kept in second place by busting the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-2, as rookie Ed Head won his first major league victory by scattering seven hits.

Kirby Higbe pitched the Phils to a 6-1 victory over the Cubs for his 13th victory of the season. He limited the Cubs to four hits while his mates were getting 11—two of them homers by Joe Marty.

Working well behind Lon Warneke, the Cardinals hammered the Boston Bees for 11 hits and a 9-3 victory.

O'Brien-Herber Duel Features Pro Opener

Eagles, Packers to Pry Lid Off Season at Green Bay Tomorrow

Green Bay—Ceremonies preceding and between halves of the gridiron clash by the Green Bay Packers and Philadelphia Eagles will help to launch the National Football league season at City stadium here Sunday afternoon.

Game time is 2 o'clock. A few minutes before the 2 o'clock flag will be raised to the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner". And then, accompanied by another mighty cheer from the throng of spectators, the 1939 National league pennant, won by the Packers, will be elevated.

Singing of "God Bless America" by Miss Lucille Meusel, Green Bay's famous coloratura soprano will feature the 15-minute patriotic interlude between halves of the game. There also will be a parade by the Green Bay High School band, the colorful Packer Lumberjack band and a color guard from Sullivan post, American Legion.

Warned by reports from the east that the Eagles are the outstanding club in that division, Coach E. L. (Curly) Lambeau has been stressing to the Packers the importance of Sunday's game. The Philadelphia team has undergone a remarkable transformation since last season, and the national champions have been cautioned fully.

O'Brien Famous

Davey O'Brien is the most famous of the Eagles, and the fans can expect plenty of trouble from his passing offensive warfare still, the Philadelphia manager has a team for Little David this year, which means that there will be 11 men to watch instead of merely one.

Fitted against O'Brien will be the veterans Arnold Herber and Cecil Isbell, Packer bomb hurlers. Some throwing may come in addition, from the recruit Hal Van Every, who is both a passer and ball carrier.

The Eagles arrived in the city early this week and have been sharing the Packer practice field for their drills. Interest among local fans grew steadily, and with a good battle promised, a large crowd is expected.

Kimberly to Get Test at Chilton

Kimberly—When Kimberly treks to Chilton Saturday, Sept. 21, for their annual non-conference football tilt, Coach Ray Hamann will get a glimpse of how his charges will stack up this year. The Kimberly mentor is building a new team around the few seniors on the squad.

The coach is putting the squad through heavy daily drills until darkness sets in before he releases them to go home. The backfield is coming along fine as also are the guards, but the ends have not shown up to expectations. Their turning in getting under passes is giving the coach his chief worry, but with another week of practice before the Chilton game this week, probably can be overcome.

Kimberly had traveled to Neenah Saturday forenoon for a scrimmage game with the Neenah High. The probable starting lineup included: L. E. Paul Smith and T. Van Himberg, and L. G. V. Vandenberg, and J. Frassetto; L. T. H. Duffane, J. Van Nuland and D. Stuyvenberg; C. D. Verkullen, T. Prue, R. Ebben and C. Dietzen.

R. G. F. Verbeten and H. Ewer; R. T. F. Vander Velden and L. Mauthe; R. E. C. Van Hammond and T. Busch; Q. B. C. Gaffney; C. Lemmings and R. Willis; L. H. J. Gaffney and F. Van Cuyk; R. H. D.

THE CAMPER COOK KIT

By Dillon Wallace

The number and size of the utensils to be included in the camp cook kit will depend upon the number of persons that the kit is designed to serve. Outfitters put up nesting kits for individual use, and kits for two, four, six or more persons. These may be well balanced, but sometimes include unnecessary articles, particularly where it is needless to reduce the kit to the smallest possible proportions. On the other hand they may omit something that the camper deems necessary. It is preferable for each camping party to assemble its kit to meet its needs, rather than to accept the stock kits.

The question of bulk and weight will have small influence in selecting the cooking equipment for the fixed camp where it will remain during the period of the camp. In the nesting camp, however, with the necessity of packing, transporting and unpacking the outfit daily, or whenever the camp is moved, both weight and bulk are matters of prime importance. This is particularly true in the canoe cruising camp, where outfit must be carried upon the back whenever portages occur. A small, light outfit only can be carried by the hiker, and the smaller and lighter it may be made without the sacrifice of efficiency the better suited it is to his needs. In these cases where there must be as little bulk as possible, a nesting kit should be assembled that there may be compactness. The following includes a sufficient cooking kit to serve three or four or even five persons:

- 1 cooking pot with cover, 5 quart capacity.
- 1 pan with folding handle, 9x3 inches, capacity 3 1/2 quarts.
- 1 combination coffee and tea pot with cover, capacity 3 1/2 quarts.
- 1 frying pan, 10 inch, with folding handle.
- 1 large cooking spoon.

There should be also, for each camper, one tin, enameled or aluminum, handle, one cup, preferably tin handle, open at the bottom to permit nesting; one dessert spoon; one knife and fork. If the campers are provided with sheath knives, these will serve as butcher and general service cooking knives, but if this is not the case, a small butcher knife should be included. This outfit with plates, cups, knives and forks for two, will weight about six pounds or less. It should be packed into a waterproof canvas case, both as a protection and in order that all cooking equipment may be kept together at all times. It will pack into a space 10x8x8 inches.

Where circumstances will permit, a reflecting baker, of the folder aluminum type, will be found a convenience. A baker of this type 8x15x18 inches, when open, folds into a flat rectangular package about 3 inches thick, and weighs 3 1/2 pounds. It should be fitted also with a waterproof canvas cover. In cases where this additional weight would prove a burden, baking may be done with perfect satisfaction, though requiring more attention, in the frying pan. In this connection, a small wire broiler, about 8x10 inches, with a 9 inch handle will be found a constantly useful article. Broilers may be made, however, with twigs, and these improvised ones serve all purposes.

Aluminum pots and kettles, and particularly frying pans are less desirable for the camp than pressed steel (black tin), cost much more, will wear no longer, and weigh practically the same. With aluminum there was also danger of aluminum poisoning where salt or soda are used in cooking, and particularly when cooked food is permitted to stand over night in the kettle, as is frequently the case in camp.

Evansville, Decatur Knotted in Playoff

By The Associated Press
Bob Coleman's fourth place Evansville club evened the Shaugnessy playoff series with Decatur last night at two victories apiece, setting the stage for tonight's decisive game at Evansville.

The victor tonight will meet pennant-winning Cedar Rapids in the final playoff. Cedar Rapids won three straight from Springfield in the other preliminary series.

Evansville knocked Bill Yarew out of the box with a four-run surge in the first inning and followed up with six runs in the second, finally winding up with an 11 to 1 victory. John Hazel gave up 10 hits but was stingy in the pinches.

Valley League Banquet Sunday

Circuit Will Close Its Season by Honoring Oshkosh at Falcon Hall

Menasha—Oshkosh 8500 Cabs, state amateur baseball champions, and winners of the Fox Valley league pennant, will be honored at the league banquet which will be attended by about 150 players at 6 o'clock Sunday night at Falcon Hall.

Eddie Danisak, manager of the Appleton Class D baseball team, has been invited to speak. George Oaks, Oshkosh mayor, and George Vanderloop, Little Chute, league president, also will speak during the short program.

Ray Mugerauer, manager of the Cabs, and the team sponsor also will be called on as well as representatives from other teams of the league. Players from the Manitowoc Fishers, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Appleton Red Sox and Gettelmans, Neenah Merchants, Falcons, and Oshkosh Cabs are expected to attend.

League umpires, headed by Casey Jansen, Little Chute, umpire-in-chief also will be guests at the banquet. A dance will follow the banquet.

Vanderloop will report on the financial condition of the league. All teams have indicated that they finished "out of the red." Rain interfered with the schedule to a great extent during the past season.

The Cabs won the league championship without the need of a playoff by taking top honors for both the first and second rounds. Bolstered by Artie Hofkins of Kimberly and Butch Kohls of Manitowoc the Cabs won the state tournament at Milwaukee. The Cabs are scheduled to play the Fond du Lac Panthers of the state class D league in a night game at Fond du Lac.

Women's Afternoon League to Organize

Organization of a 10-team afternoon women's league will be completed at a meeting at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Elks club. Officers will be elected and plans for the season discussed, according to Mrs. Leone Uetzmann, who organized the new circuit. The women will roll Friday afternoons at the Elks alleys.

Giants Finally Lose

New York—When the New York Giant National Football league team lost to the Eastern League All-Stars, 16 to 7, this year at the Polo Grounds, it was the first time the Giants had ever been beaten by an All-Star team. And Now, Mr. Doehling, Let's Take Down Our Hair, Have Good Cry

BY CARL H. DOEHLING

Ripon College Football Coach

Written for The Associated Press

Ripon—A coach doesn't help the morale of his team by crying early in the season, and he's apt to dig a deep, deep grave for himself by assuming his boys are already "in."

To give an honest appraisal of the Ripon college Redmen and their fate in the Midwest conference race, while seeking to avoid either of the above attitudes, is no small task for one who prefers coaching to prognosticating.

An opinion, tempered as it must be by a coach's emotional tieup with the hope of victory and dread of defeat for his team, does not predict the top rung for Ripon, nor does it invite the rest of the league to consider the Redmen a push-over. Here are the cold facts, as I see them.

Ripon was co-champion with Knox in 1939. All Midwest coaches will prime their squads especially for us. Consequently, we'll be under pressure throughout. Moreover, it is conceded that all conference teams are better balanced than in previous years. It's anybody's race with the gridiron fates always at hand to dish out the unexpected.

Schedule Not Easy

Some over-zealous commentators seek to make our schedule look easy by noting that we play neither Knox nor Grinnell this year. With due respect to both, I would prefer to meet both rather than any other two among the tough ones we shall face—Coe, Cornell, Monmouth, Carleton and Lawrence.

Coe, our first opponent on Sept. 28, after only 16 days of practice is consistently strong. Testifying to that are five Hawkish championships, two more than any other Midwest team has achieved.

On succeeding Saturdays we meet Cornell in Iowa and Monmouth in Illinois.

Cornell with Gene Tornquist, all conference back, and a veteran line will be as tough as they come.

Monmouth was rated by my boys last season as the smoothest competition they faced. True, Coach Bobby Woll will have lost such vets as Jim Vipon, Dud Plunkett and Scapecchi, but there will be plenty left to carry on.

Beloit, our fourth opponent on Oct. 19, has lost at least 10 lettermen. But the downstaters, last year, after their victory over Chicago, almost ruined our year with a fight from which we were lucky to escape with a scoreless tie. We meet Carleton on Oct. 26. The Carls will have the largest and heaviest squad in the circuit.

Homecoming Game

Coach Bernie Hesolton of Lawrence will confront us with a veteran letterman at each position except right half in our homecoming game, Nov. 2.

Ripon will have 14 lettermen, assuming that four aces who haven't reported for early season drills, actually show up. Captain Sveto Krcmar, Ken Miller, Bud Christensen and Ray Peters, Lloyd Smith and Les Krause sound like a lot of backs. We don't deny that Krcmar and Miller are head-liners, but if an injury should cancel the former, my assistant George Lanphear, will join in a loud wail.

Ends are fair as represented by Jim Rember, Keith Kuehn and Jerry Townsend, Madgo Molinari and Syl Sijan, standouts among the reserves last year, may make the regulars take notice.

Earl Gierhahn and Tiny Croft at tackles are capable, but they'll be playing 60-minute ball unless Ed Buckley and Walter Wallschlaeger develop as replacements. Of much greater concern is our need for tough, hard running and blocking guards. There's only one veteran available, Don Anderson, a junior from Wentworth. Others whom we are grooming are Al Schwass, Jimmy Kuehn, Ed Kate and Harold Palmer.

If reliable Art Halamka, a nifty center from Milwaukee, doesn't return we have Harry Knop, last season reserve, as the only immediate prospect.

The 1939 freshmen and reserves whom we inherit are much too small in numbers. Tom Brahe, an Oshkosh back, will be used as center or a guard. A scrapper from Two Rivers, Gordon Prucha, will be used in the center position. Walt Wilinski, a speed demon from Steinmetz, Chicago, may develop as an extra back. Other boys with fighting chances for positions include Sam du Bow, fullback; Chuck Diekow, Del Bowling, Bob Erdman and Carl Gatzke, backs; Bob Alberts and Don Schuler, line posts.

Looking at the Ripon squad as a whole, there are several good backs but not enough, a possible weakness at center and guard and lack of sufficient, capable replacements for other positions.

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK

Yesterday we were speaking about the people of the island of Tasmania, south of Australia. They belonged to a race which has died out, but we have records of their customs.

The Tasmanians did not know how to make clay dishes, and had no way of boiling water. When they cooked meat, they placed it over an open fire or else placed it in an oven of a crude sort.

Today we may see what is left of some of the early "ovens." They were holes in the ground from three to eight feet deep. Some of them were from 10 to 25 feet wide!

A great deal of meat could be placed in such an oven to be roasted.

Opossums, as well as kangaroos, were slain for food. Snakes and lizards were other animals eaten by these people.

The early Tasmanians seem to have known how to make fire by rubbing wood against wood. They did not enjoy the task, however, and took pains to make a bonfire last as long as possible. Day and night they would add new fuel.

When they went on journeys, they carried burning sticks for use in starting a fire. This custom may remind us of the "firebrand Indians" described by Spaniards who explored the southwestern part of the United States four centuries ago.

The people of Tasmania seem to have been friendly to the whites who first settled on their island, but quarrels arose as the years went by. Both the whites and the blacks made attacks on villages.

Another trouble was disease. The natives fell sick with certain kinds of illness which had not been known in Tasmania before the white settlers came. Such illness took a heavy toll.

In an effort to save the Tasmanian race, the British government provided a reservation for the few hundred still alive. The last full-blooded Tasmanian man died in 1865, the last woman in 1876.

Polling Places At New London to Open at 9 O'clock

Four Candidates Draw Special Interest of Third Ward Voters

New London — From 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. next Tuesday, New London voters will visit the polls of the five ward precincts in the city to cast their ballots in the Wisconsin state primary to select candidates for the November general election.

Third ward voters have interest in three local candidates and a fourth formerly of this city.

George Miller, lime crusher living at 1201 Mill street is seeking Republican nomination for representative to congress from the Eighth district. M. H. McDonnell, 321 E. Cooke street, real estate and insurance agent, is seeking Progressive nomination for clerk of Ottawa county and also party precinct committee member. Mrs. M. VanAlstine, 523 E. Hancock street, is seeking the party precinct committee post for the Democratic party. McDonnell and Mr. VanAlstine are unopposed but Miller has three other candidates opposing him on the same ticket.

Attorney Walter Melchior, formerly of this city and now at Appleton, is in the Progressive race for representative in congress from the Eighth district in opposition to Michael F. Kresky of Green Bay.

Two changes in the New London election board will be necessary since Mrs. VanAlstine and John Dickinson are ineligible to serve the former as a candidate and the latter because he has moved from the first ward voting precinct. Dickinson's place will be taken by Mrs. Harry Hall.

In the four New London wards in Waupaca county the greatest contests appear in the Republican ranks. For county offices, A. Don Zwickey of Clintonville and J. Kyle Anderson of Waupaca seek the office of district attorney. For county register of deeds, Mrs. Alice Larkee, incumbent, is opposed by Fred E. Heinke, Clintonville, Paul J. Behm, Waupaca, and George N. Brooks, Ogdensburg.

The only opposition on the county Progressive ticket is between Martin Kleist of Weyauwega and Raymond B. Wright of Iowa for sheriff. The Democrats have no slate of county candidates.

Aside from the state contests in the three parties, Republicans of Waupaca county will choose between Reid F. Murray of Ogdensburg, now in Washington, and Herman H. Behm of Waupaca for representative in congress; and Progressives will pick a candidate for state assembly from Alvin A. Handrich, town of Little Wolf, Peter C. Jensen, town of Farmington, and Rhinard I. Anderson, Iowa.

Lawrence Says New Dealers are Reopening Suits

Production Under Defense Program Is Delayed by Action

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing in government today. President Roosevelt is trying to assure the country that he is doing everything he can to speed up industrial production and get airplanes built and the department of justice is throwing more monkey wrenches into the industrial machinery of the nation.

Attorney General Jackson, who wrote the famous opinion which asked the president of the United States to violate the laws of the land, has announced that it is grossly misrepresenting the so-called Bethlehem cases to say the government was reopening old lawsuits.

Mr. Jackson says: "It has been published in various papers that the government is frightening business and industry into the feeling that they cannot deal with the government in the present emergency on a basis of dependability. We are going to find out through this suit whether any government officer can commit the government to unconscionable profits by a manufacturer. Maybe that will give some point to the Russell-Overton amendment to the selective draft bill."

The attorney general used to know something of the operations of business when he was a public utilities lawyer. He knew then that once a case is closed and the money paid over, it usually required a showing of fraud in order to get a contract reopened. That has been the immemorial tradition of the law.

Large Profit Claims
Today, nearly 22 years after the last World war, the government of the United States, even though the money was paid under the contract,

Teachers Will Play Golf at Springvale

New London — Men teachers of all Waupaca county schools who play golf will congregate at Springvale course here Sunday afternoon for several rounds of golf on general invitation from Carl Baehner, county superintendent of schools. Play will begin at 1:30.

The regular Thursday evening golf and supper will be held by the New London club next week and the committee in charge will be Thomas F. Fitzgerald, chairman, H. B. Crisly, Len Cline, G. H. Salter, Walter Stewart and Dave Vanderveer.

now files a claim to recover what it claims were too large profits. Would Mr. Jackson risk his own money on contracts of that kind and would he find any bank in the country or any investors who would put money in a company which might get a government contract today and be subject at any time in the far distant future to a suit for the recovery of sums paid on the ground that these were "unconscionable"?

The New Dealers, it is being widely inferred, are much more interested in playing politics with defense and making demagogic appeals to class prejudice than in speeding up defense production by removing obstacles to increased output through the building of new plants and the encouragement of industry.

Congress is passing laws to limit excess profits. But apparently this is not enough. Long after the treasury has collected what is due, the courts are to be asked, whenever the government wishes it, to reopen any case which is already closed.

The attorney general insists that the present cases he is fighting are necessary to save the government money awarded in a lower court. He caresses his duty to appeal that case and virtually ignored the fact that in another case it was the department's initiative which is carrying to the supreme court an effort to overturn what three judges appointed by the New Deal said was a closed case.

Wood's Statement
Frederick H. Wood, attorney who is fighting the extraordinary tactics of the attorney general and who won the famous NRA case in the supreme court, says in a brief filed with the supreme court:

"Carried to its logical conclusion the contention of the government would appear to be that this court, independent of any statutory limitation of profits, should declare that as a matter of law, no government contractor, in time of war or at any other time, no matter what the terms of the contract may be or what benefits may be derived therefrom by the government, may receive or retain any profits in excess of that which the courts shall subsequently determine to be reasonable."

"No authority is cited in support of that startling contention, which, if correct, would transfer the determination of prices in government contracts from the executive to the judicial department and the determination of questions of policy, in respect of such contracts, from the congress to the courts."

Investors generally are soon to be asked to provide funds to finance defense contracts under the Securities and Exchange laws passed by the New Deal. It is stipulated that nobody selling securities may omit any essential or material fact. If Mr. Jackson's point of view is upheld by the supreme court, it will mean that every company must frankly tell prospective investors in advance that they cannot count on their company's retaining any earnings because these must really be set up in reserve for the indefinite future for fear the government under this or any subsequent radical administration may at any time decide to reopen the old contracts and cry "unconscionable profits."

3 Judges Opposed
Three New Deal judges in the circuit court of appeals ruled against the attorney general's contentions,

Pegler's Most Civilized Man Is Connecticut Mill Worker

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — The most highly civilized man I know is a sallow young Georgian of 28 years or so who was born in a log house chinked with mud, such as may be seen from the highways and the train windows there. He quit school when he was 8 years old to help out around the poverty-stricken patch on which his family lived and, a few years later, joined out with a building contractor to earn a little cash money and learn a trade.

He lives in a small Connecticut mill town where squalor considerably hides its unsightliness by budding along a side road beside a stream which could be beautiful and in some of its reaches is undeniably lovely. In this particular stretch, however, the river is badly fouled with crumbling industrial outbuildings and the familiar clutter of old tires, oil cans and all such.

The settlement around the mill, which manufactures wire and wire products—a historic industry in this particular section—depends on the mill for much of its living, but the wages are low, the work is intermittent and there is no margin. My friend has a wife and little boy, and he works in the mill as assistant machinist now, which means that he continues to work during layoffs in the mill, because that is the time when the machinery is tightened up and repaired. I won't attempt to go into details about that, because I don't know much about it and, anyway, that isn't my story.

My story is that my friend is a carpenter and cabinet maker; he can mix plaster and concrete, build a chimney, take down and reassemble an automobile and mend an old wreck with parts picked up at the wreckers' yard. He is an electrician, plumber and steamfitter and a farmer, and he can butcher his own meat.

He can build a whole house, starting with the excavation and foundation, and if I give an impression that he is just a typical oldtime, rural handy man or tinker I have done him an injustice and mangled the story. That kind can't do anything well, whereas my friend does everything with the expert touch. That is why I say he is the most civilized man I ever have known, although he never really went to school but just dropped in for a couple of those short winter sessions in a rural seat of learning in a backward Georgia county, during which, nevertheless, he learned to read and write and to reckon up figures well enough for his purposes. Put him down on a frontier and he

That should have ended it. But the opportunity to get headlines by attacking so-called profiteering in the middle of a presidential campaign—even though the contracts were nearly 22 years old—was evidently too good to miss, so the solicitor general, who files petitions in the court one day and campaigns on the stump the next day against Willkie, made his pronouncement. And now the attorney general denies the charge about reopened cases as a "falsehood." The records in the court and the briefs filed by opposing counsel show that if the administration is upheld in the supreme court, production will be able to depend on the permanence of a government payment even after it is made. This, like the Russell-Overton amendment, can only lead to nationalization of industry which while possibly desired by the more communistic minded of the New Dealers, means a loss of valuable time now and the paralysis of the defense program. If it goes through, we will have our 50,000 planes from five to seven years from now, and the experience of France with her ill-fated radicalism will be repeated here.

The first few weeks he thought the work would kill him, and colored casual laborers on the same job would work a day or two, draw their pay and wander off, but he stuck it because the contractor had told him he would teach him all about building houses if he would stick around. He worked with the contractor four or five years, and one part of his money home, and when he finally decided to come north he had all these new skills added to the others, which he had acquired farming the patch at home.

There are a lot of potential munitions plants around our part of the country, but they say these places can't produce munitions because the machinery doesn't exist. But I tell you what they can do. They could turn my friend loose, give him an automobile bonnyard or a tow-dump with a fair quota of old washboilers and baby carriages or it and he would come up with workable anti-aircraft gun or tank in due time.

And if a special kind of machine was wanted to bore the tube of special kind of cannon you wouldn't have to bother with blueprints. Just give him a tough idea and a couple of weeks to work on it in his spare time. Then one night he would be around at the door saying: "I got that machine for you to make cannon with. Where shall I put it?" Believe it or not, my friend's name is Johnny Brown. I don't know why they haven't called him down to Washington.

The first zoological garden was established in China about 1100 B.C.
